Some months ago while Madame was preparing breakfast a great noise arose amongst the denizens of the chicken yard. Little Jean, aged 8, scampered off to see the "poulet" his mother close behind. A ruckie in the bushes behind the house slipping and sliding away into nothingness. A wail they heard or saw for their times.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—The crusade against cigarette smoking, which has been carried on lately in some parts of the West, is just being brought to New York by Miss Lucy Page Gaston, who has been directing the crusade from the Women's Temple in Chicago for a number of years.

It was nearly seven years ago that the Chicago Anti Cigarette League was formed. Today at the end of our interview among the schoolboys who Miss Gaston so fondly finds the most productive field for work. Spurred on by what the agitation in the West has brought forth, Miss Gaston has come to the more active East where she believes a few well-placed hints will do the trick.

Miss Gaston told all about this new field the boys at the Hotel Marlborough Washington where she has been staying while organizing the New York Anti Cigarette League.

A cigarette is a Turkish or Egyptian plant which represents to Miss Gaston an evil in the world, but an evil which is so destructive to the moral fiber—in short the character of the world sort. But the new law which the federal East presents for the anti cigarette crusade is not so much in the small boys as in the woman or fashion.

WOMEN SMOKE CIGARETTES

Do you know, said Miss Gaston, I have found that many of your women society leaders smoke cigarettes. In fact I've heard that they are ever smoked here at the Marlborough Washington.

I couldn't really believe that but I have been assured that it is so. Underlying is creeping in everywhere, under the very things of social life and what it is taken up by women, what can we expect of the boys?

Miss Gaston handed out a few pamphlets from a little pile that she had been arranging much as one plays solitaire. They were treatises against cigarette smoking by the young or the middle aged and by the old. All of them painted cigarette smoke as being on the pathway to perdition.

But how do you know so much about the cigarette if you have never tried one? asked The North American reporter innocently.

Young man no cigarette has ever been between my lips I have been invited to try one many times. At the tobacco shop they made a determined effort to make me smoke one, said Miss Gaston. Miss Gaston drew herself up to her full height and looked the reporter squarely in the eye. Young man I presume you smoke cigarettes?

The reporter admitted that he did occasionally and that when he did it was generally the kind called Turkish.

Well said Miss Gaston, I have been informed that the Turkish cigarette is no better than any other. I know it is because it is used to have a collapse. Her physician—a doctor, mind you—advised her to try a cigarette.

She began to smoke and that led to drink, isn't that awful?

THEY ARE ALL BAD

Turkish cigarettes provided you spent enough for this doctor said were all right. But I know another man a very wealthy man who smokes the other kind and told me that they were just as good and you did not have to pay the duty.

That only shows the difference of opinion, but they're all bad.

Then Miss Gaston explained just what the anti cigarette crusade had accomplished. Seven States she said now had laws against the sale of cigarettes. That had done some good.

But you see explained the anti cigarette crusader, a law is a law only when it is enforced. Now out in Iowa for instance the tobacco manufacturers out side of the State cunningly send cigarette papers through the mails to the men.

Of course the men can buy tobacco and then there's no law against their smoking cigarettes, they roll themselves. The Interstate Commerce Commission I believe has ruled that we can't stop this. But we are going to work to get a law in this State that may help some.

One of the first things I propose to do is to send our pledge to the Colony Club. That I believe is your club for fashion able women. Now here I believe is our field.

What we are going to ask these women to do is to cooperate with us not alone the Colony Club but the other women's clubs. We hope to enroll the members of the Colony Club as members of our Lincoln Guards.

A FILE OF PAMPHLETS

Miss Gaston looked over her pile of pamphlets and selected the one bearing on the Lincoln Guards. Copies were just walting to be sent to the Colony Club for the States and the Society for the Study of Life.

You see we are going to ask them to take the pledge which is necessary to become a member. She handed out something that looked like a souvenir postal card with a picture of Lincoln on this.

I hereby pledge myself with the help of the Colony Club to abstain from all intoxicating liquors and from the use of tobacco in any form.

But do the Colony Club members smoke anything but cigarettes? asked the reporter.

No I don't know that they do said Miss Gaston, but that pledge is drawn up for all and you know some women are said even to smoke opium.

It is the women then we must reach up. Then she said she thought it best to go to the New York State that resulted in laws against the sale of the cigarette. But no law has been passed yet of stopping people from smoking cigarettes if they can get them.

Miss Gaston admitted that in many States that had passed anti cigarette laws people still seemed to be able to get hold of cigarettes. With a manufacturer's stand as much as men. And then women are made to be mothers and what can we expect in the children if the mother is debauched by this habit?

But if we can get such organizations as the Colony Club to cooperate with us and sign this pledge we all have taken a long step toward the eradication of this habit.

Miss Gaston will talk about this new field the afternoon at the Hotel Martine, Washington, where she has been staying while organizing the New York Anti Cigarette League.

Woman of 50--Her Advantages, Opinions, Ability to Weigh and Test Her Beliefs

Baker celebrated the woman of 30 one of his disciples as a follower of the woman of 40 and Mrs. Woodrow has now moved the limit of a woman's action still another step forward by writing a praise of the woman of 50. In the first chapter of her new book, The Bird of Time, her heroine Madame Exerla, discourses with much eloquence on Indian Summers Lady and her opportunities. Beginning with clothes, she says,

A wide field of choice belongs to the middle-aged woman. She may strike vibrant chords of strong color or soft, harmonious moonlight shades. The splendor of jewels is her privilege and she may deck herself barbarically and yet be within the canons of good taste. She may ransack the ages, spoil the climes for effects for whatever makes for form or color but these are not her gods. The woman who is really charming has given these details due attention and has then relegated them to the background of her thoughts for the woman of 50 who is beautiful lives in the world's life and ideals its hopes and dreams. She stands for something in her particular environment. Her opinions are no longer tentative or in the formative period. She has had years wherein to observe events to study persons and conditions and to weigh and test the value of her beliefs. And the delightful woman of middle life is very tolerant very chary of passing judgment. In fact she has a greater horror of intolerance than the devil of holy water. Why should the rose cavil at the catnip? The world is wide and it would be extremely monotonous if this earth were one vast flower garden. Neither is Indian Summer's Lady sensitive. That is a form of egotism which may be excused at sweet 13 but is impossible at 50. She has learned with patience and humility life's most difficult lesson—self control, and she seasons all her dishes at her banquet of existence with a sense of humor. But the last and crowning charm of a woman of 50 is repose. She does not fuss or bustle. She has sown for many years, and now it is time for her to begin to reap some of her harvests. To gather up her fruit and tears.

Is Money a Real Necessity for The Up to Date Young Woman?

A money allowance has become a necessity to the girl of the present.

The present system of education points to self reliance and individuality.

The girl of the past could be gently clinging dependent the girl of the future must be strong capable and fearless.

The girl of today is taught that she must assist in her own mental and moral development, decide her own work and be able to live her own life.

When, as so often happens, she is placed in a position of utter irresponsibility blame with regard to home matters she claims and is content a discontented dissatisfied and generally wretched

She blames the fact that she must ask for a remedy she needs
She has no pleasure in giving she can make no sacrifices In this discontented girl may be found the answer to the question "Why do our daughters go out from home and never return except upon one or the other of employment in the business world?"
The first answer is usually I must be independent
If you will look closely into her life and study her problems you will find that the independence for which she long-is not likely to do what is conventional nor does it always include them it is a very proper and useful thing but it has sense of freedom which an assured income no matter how or did not

And I skip of the allowance question when your parents should consider in view of her fact
If my mother will she will not be unprepared for the numberless small misfortunes of a household
If she does not marry how ill-fitted she will be for a fight with the world the practical world in whose vocabulary ignorance is not synonymous with indignity

Year's Triumph of Women in Sports

MRS. ANDREW CUNEO, SECOND IN GLIDDEN TOUR.

Throw your bouquets to the American sportswoman she deserves them. Her achievements have thrilled the world with admiration and wonder. Winning honors after honors during the past few months is her proud record and this she has won without losing her grip on matters social.

The society sportswoman is a creature of progressive environments. Over in England she attained the peculiar dual position many years ago.

The American woman too showed signs of following in the same footsteps as those abroad but her advance was slow and cautious—this perhaps because she was a bit afraid that her English and French cousins might view with a connoisseurs' instant her first attempt.

But thanks to her independence of spirit and action the American girl in the face of laughter and mocking has forged ahead in her new chosen field and today she can rightly breathe a long deep sigh of satisfaction inferior to none at the wheel of a yacht or an automobile with the oars or the reins she has outdistanced all with the racquet or the golf club. All this too without a moment's forgetting to maintain her place in social affairs. Instead of being a devotee through her devotion to sports she finds that it envelops her to new and compelling interest among members of the opposite sex and envy among her own. In fact this is an age of doing things—even among women of fashion.

MRS. ANDREW CUNEO
Mrs. Andrew Cunéo has the unique distinction of being the only woman who finished the automobile run from Cleveland Ohio to New York City for the Glidden trophy. For this honor a certificate of merit was awarded. How cleverly she managed the machine during the whole 1000-mile run can be gained from the fact that from all the other women chauffeurs she alone withstood the test of endurance. The tour was the fourth annual run of the American automobile association for the Glidden trophy. Mrs. Cunéo reached Newark, New Jersey on her way from Philadelphia second in the race and but for an untoward accident there, would have been among those who came into New York with a clean score. She deserved a prize nevertheless and got it.

When a silver loving cup was presented to her at a meeting of the association at the Hotel Astor on July 25 her male competitors cheered her to an echo. They could not help from applauding Woman's pluck, excited enthusiasm, no matter in what field the achievement is gained.

MISS PFEIFFER
All have heard over and over again the charms of Miss Genevieve Pfeiffer the Western girl who surprised the students of Wellesley by her athletic ability but never to such an extent as to diminish the reputation of her distinctly feminine qualities.

She entered the academy in 1904 and took up rowing with such success that as a freshman she was selected from among a hundred girls to row in the crew. No 5 in the Wellesley rowing crew was Miss Pfeiffer's athletic post and right well did she sustain her position.

She threw confidence life and courage into the other members by her masterly example. So well did she succeed that at the close of her junior year she carried home with her the champion oar of her college all hung with white and blue. Oddly enough her father Dr. O. T. Pfeiffer had been No. 5 of the Harvard crew in 1881 when that university won the rowing honors from Columbia. So the two sons the red blade trophy of Harvard and the blue and white of Wellesley were hung side by side on the walls of the family room. One of the finest parties in the history of Denver was given to celebrate the joint event.

"What you must do is to take the sleeve of one model and the collar of another and the skirt of another and combine them with a few little fastidious touches of your own. That is the correct effect, the line and movement that show that you're a real artist and not seamstress. If you can't do that you'd better save your railroad fare by staying away from this convention, and if it can't instantly make clothes that make you think of your mind to that first as last."

AMONG THE WRITERS.
A NOVEL BY W. C. MORROW.

A new serial story by Mr. W. C. Morrow has been published in the October number of Success. The editors of this magazine consider it to be one of the "one of the most charming and fascinating romances since 'The Prisoner of Zenda' in 'Lendings,'" continuing the reviewer, "Mr. Morrow's fine creative work is seen at its best. It is a dashing narrative of romance and adventure which will appeal to both young and old alike. . . . In many respects it is equal to Stevenson's 'Treasure Island' and 'Kidnapped.' . . . The most beautiful love story, which forms the motif of the entire tale." Mr. Morrow has now written and will be awarded the interest the deeper because of his long silence. Many years have elapsed since his last publication. During this interval, however, Mr. Morrow has devoted himself chiefly to teaching his art, and has been able to publish another in the Pacific coast upon their rising success.

A NEW MAGAZINE.

The second issue of "The Courierre" has just been issued. It is a psychological magazine published on the Pacific coast in high class. It is the first of its kind in appearance. It is edited by Dr. Nellie Behre whose peculiar gift is every where known. The editor is the master of "The Courierre," which is on sale at all the leading book stores.

EDDIE SMITH.

What is the attraction of a contest between men who are scantily attired with padded gloves on their hands, trying with all the speed and science that they possess to put their opponent to the floor for a time, while the referee of the contest counts ten, which means that the fallen gladiator has been defeated?

A short time ago a certain man of great ability announced to the world through the columns of the newspapers that he was of the opinion that the boxing game was the most brutal and disgusting sport that had ever been known to man.

After witnessing the miserable contest between Joe Gans and Jimmy Britt, it can hardly be wondered at that he should thusly, for who of us who went to the ball ground that afternoon did not come away from the arena in a fit of disgust? There was nothing exhilarating or thrilling to this so-called contest, however, and the spectacle of witnessing a champion jab an opponent to submission with little or no fear or exertion is something that no true American sport cares to witness.

PERSONAL EXPERIENCE.

The gentleman of great ability reminded the writer greatly of an experience that he once had which may in a way be taken as an idea of how the sport might work wonders with its most severe critic.

It was on the night of the Britt-Johnson fight and if those who were in attendance will look back they will remember that the contest was held at the old Woodward's Pavilion, the crowd was enormous and the getting into the pavilion was like playing center rush on a college football team.

The writer had hardly time to become seated before an elderly gentleman asked the direction of his seat; after looking at the check it was discovered that he had the seat adjoining mine and with a sigh of relief he seated himself and with a grunt of satisfaction said: "Well, young man, this is the first prize fight that I have ever seen, and if the crowd is always so great it will be the last."

I assured the speaker that this was an exception to the rule and that the crowd was caused by the fact that one of San Francisco's favorites was about to battle with a man who was called champion.

BECAME INTERESTED.

I, of course, became interested in how he would take the first pugilistic contest he had ever seen, and tried to explain the different forms of this "quaint" to him.

The preliminary between a tall, slim novice and a thick set amateur was brought on in the mean time and as the bell rang we had our attention directed to the contestants.

The contest had hardly started when the short man planted a swing on the taller boxer's nose and the blood began to flow freely. The short man then upon seeing a few more times and a tall man fell in a heap on the floor, much to the disgust of every one present.

WAS DISGUSTED.

The old gentleman turned to me with the most disgusted look and said: "If that's what they call a prize fight I don't want to see any more and I am glad that I have never seen any before. I think I shall go before the next pair start."

I urged upon him that the preliminary was a ruse and a disappointment and that he had better wait for the main event, which was between two exceptionally good men. Then, too, I reminded him of the utter impossibility to get out with the crowd surging around the entrances as they were, and advised him to stay, even if it was only to avoid an accident in trying to get out.

Britt and Corbett soon entered the ring and it was noticed that my friend was sizing the men up from head to foot. He turned to me finally and informed me that Britt was like the other slender fighter and the contest would be the same as the other, with the thick set, strong young fellow beating his opponent unmercifully.

EFFECT OF CONTEST.

The contest opened, however, with the new depoter intensely interested. As the rounds went on he became more and more excited and before the fifteenth had been fought he was on his feet half the time cheering Britt on as if mad with excitement.

When the crowd began to howl, Britt, Britt, during the intermission between the last few rounds, he was one of the loudest voices of the great crowd, and when Jimmy was given the decision he threw his hat in the air and yelled as wildly as any college man ever dared to do.

Right there, it is needless to say, he was made an enthusiastic boxing fan. This might have been the experience of the famous writer had he had the good fortune to witness a good thrilling contest.

BOXER VS. BULL FIGHTER.

It was hardly fair to attempt, as the critic did, to compare the boxer with the bull fighter as to grace, and unnecessary for the reason that it was never claimed that the boxing game called for any extreme amount of grace such as the bull fighter displays.

Of all the sports under the sun, or for that matter any other form of entertainment, the bull fighter is by far the most graceful. If the people of this country were to be compared with the high class bull fighters, one could say that there was not a proud man in America.

When the bull fighter walks into the arena he is the personification of gracefulness, and his every action while in the ring is noticeably the same. The bull has no chance in a bull fight, however, and the daring and grace of the fighter is what makes the thing spectacular. An ungraceful bull fighter would be as useful as a boxer with one hand and arm.

PERSONAL COMBAT.

From time immemorial the people have craved for some form of combat between some sort of gladiator, and the boxing game is simply the modern style of combat handed down by those who fought for life in the arenas of old. And so it will always be, for as long as the human being remains the hustling, bustling, nervous wretch that we now are and have been since no one knows when, the people will long for personal combat, wherein there is some element of danger and effort.

The boxing game as run today is not objectionable because of its brutality or danger, but because the fighters will, if not watched closely, persist in framing up contests for the purpose of getting the money and not showing which of the men is really the better man. This is the great evil that the men interested in the welfare of the game have to deal with and it will only be a matter of a few years when the fighters will fear prearranged contests as they would the plague.

GAME PURIFYING.

With each year the game gets better, and it would seem by watching the ringside people at the fights, that with each year the personnel of the audience is bettered.

Brutality Passing Out of Sport.Modern Ring Workmen Are Superior to the Old School of Fighters.

An indication of the feeling of a contestant after a contest was illustrated last month at the Reliance Club, when after the contests had been decided and the management were paying the young gladiators, Dick Cullen and Fred Ward came to the office arm in arm talking of the hard contest they had just been through. "You're too strong for me, Fred," said Cullen, and Ward with a pleasant smile made no answer.

One of the directors standing near by was so surprised that he could hardly believe that they were the contestants in the wind-up of the show. "Is it possible that these are the two men who fought so fiercely for six rounds and now almost love one another?" he asked.

That is the feeling of most of the contestants in a boxing match and for that reason it is argued by some that the game is really, not a brutal one.

RELIEVED OF BRUTALITY.

The referee of today who allows a contest to go on when one of the men has no apparent chance to win is always censured by the spectators and when a contestant is in a bad way and the referee fails to see that the contest should be stopped, those sitting around the ring generally advise him in no gentle terms what to do.

When a man says that a boxing contest is more brutal than a bull fight, where the crowd will stand on their feet and shout their disapproval and hurl empty bottles and pieces of sugar cane at the fighter if he does not kill the poor animal that has been taunted half to death, I say that he is stretching a point. The sport of boxing will always remain popular so long as it is run strictly on its merits, as it is the most thrilling of all sports and the element of excitement it wins makes any sport popular. A boxing contest is not to be judged by such an affair as the Britt-Gans fight.

Any sport or amusement can be ridiculed or belittled but the gate receipts and the class of people that crowd to a contest is what makes it popular and I venture to say that when the time comes when the contests will be always strictly on their merits, the boxing game will shine all others, even to a greater extent than it does today.

FRANKIE NEIL ANXIOUS TO MEET ABE ATTELL AGAINHard Hitting and Willing Oakland Lad Thinks That Abe Is Dodging a Fight With Him.

Just why Abe Attell will fight almost any other little fighter in the world, and on almost any terms, and how Frankie Neil is a mystery, which the sporting public does not understand.

Attell is now matched to fight Freddie Weeks at Los Angeles. Weeks is a tough customer, and will probably give to Attell a rather tough fight, but if Attell has as good as an even break in the milling it is a cinch that he will be given the decision.

Those Los Angeles referees are something like the Philadelphia lightweights. They are generally overweight in the matter of favoritism towards the man that Tom McCarthy likes to see get the coin.

Attell has been doing a lot of four-flushing around the country of late. About two weeks ago Abe went up to Alton, Ill., a small town near St. Louis, and fought Tommy Sullivan.

After the fight was over the St. Louis papers referred to the affair as a kid glove love fest.

One paper in St. Louis reported the fight in the following crisp manner: "Nothing doing in the first round. Little doing in the second round. Nothing doing in the third round. Little doing in the fourth. Less doing in the fifth round. And nothing doing in the sixth round."

That's a pretty terse way of reporting a fight, but the chances are that Abe Attell and Sullivan framed that little Alton affair to please each other in the ring. Neil has signified his willingness.

Yesterday morning Young Neil received a letter from Sylvia Ferretti of the Indianapolis Club asking Neil if he would meet Attell at that place for $50 per cent of the gross receipts.

Ferretti declared in the letter that he had already gotten Attell's consent. That's quite funny, isn't it? Attell is willing to fight Neil in Indianapolis, a town where a fighter can't get enough to buy a shave and a clean collar, but he will not fight Neil in San Francisco, the best fighting town on the globe.

A match between Attell and Neil in San Francisco would prove a drawing card of great value. The public are growing tired of seeing the big "muscles"

Reliance Club
Members Active

Earl Auerbach, the energetic baseball man of the Reliance Club, is now an enthusiast on handball, and in company with Ernest Weigle, leader of the Novelty Theater orchestra, James N. Makins and several other experts, spends a considerable portion of his time in the courts. Every one who for the first time tries a game of handball finds it so exhilarating and so fascinating that he at once becomes an enthusiast.

Tommy Burns, world champion, will make his headquarters at the Reliance Club this coming week. Tommy goes to England shortly to show the residents of the "right little, tight little isle" what sort of men are grown over here, and while he is at the Reliance he will keep in condition by regular exercise. Burns says the Reliance gym is an ideal place to hold a show and is anxious to see a big scrap pulled off there.

Professor Lewis announces that he will be ready to start his ladies' and juvenile classes by about October 20 and is making all necessary arrangements for the opening. The juvenile class will open with about twenty members and the ladies will number at least a dozen at the start.

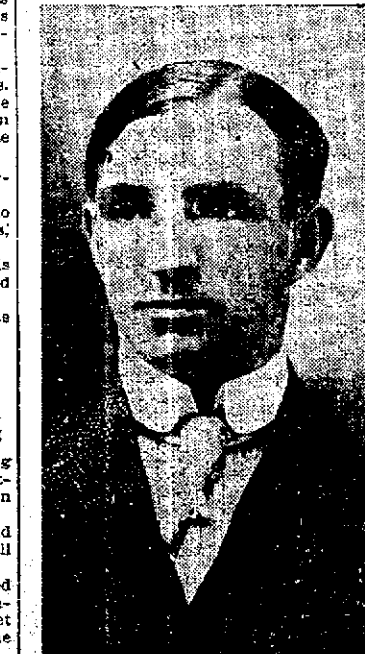

The Reliance shower room is to be a big card among the members and it is to be arranged so conveniently that nothing could be more handy. In the first place it adjoins the dressing and locker room and has a private dressing-room in addition. The floor is of cement and the walls are enameled in white. There are six showers, three open and three partitioned off for those desiring privacy. The water is fresh and there is hot and cold in each shower.

Emil Fritsch, vice-president of the Reliance and expert designer of entertainments, is working enthusiastically upon the high jinks shortly to be given at the club for members and friends.

"I am determined," said Mr. Fritsch recently, "that this event shall be a record-smasher in such affairs. We have the room and the talent and everything to make the affair a success, and I know that it will be such."

When Fritsch takes such a stand it means something, as he is a man given to doing, not talking of what he is about to do. Of course he will have the combined aid of the members and such of the old guard as can be relied upon to put their shoulders collectively to the wheel and make things move. This jinks will be closely followed by a ladies' night and then it will be time for the big indoor hippodrome and circus, to be given on a scale never before attempted by any organization west of Chicago. Negotiations are already under way to secure a large menagerie for this event and already it has been practically decided that the grand entrance and street parade shall include at least two elephants, as many camels, trained horses, dogs and ponies. If possible a wild animal tamer with a den of lions, tigers or bears will be on the bill.

Neil is making a mistake in making such liberal terms. Abraham might insist on a Los Angeles referee, and then where would poor Neil be. Neil is very anxious to get back in the game and he is willing to hook up with any of the small men in the business. He is particularly anxious to hear from Oscar Moran, the English feather, who should now be in this country.

FIREMAN FLYNN WILL FIGHT THE BIG SMOKE

JIM FLYNN, THE COLORADO FIREMAN, IS READY TO TAKE CHANCE WITH JOHNSONPueblo Man Is Confident of Outcome.Believes That He Is the Man Destined to Stop Upward Rush of Black Demon.

By W. W. NAUGHTON

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 6.—It has been left to Jim Flynn, the Pueblo fireman, to do battle with Jack Johnson, the most avoided heavyweight, probably, the prize ring has known. Johnson, who, within the past couple of years, has sailed the seven seas in search of a decent, profitable match, has been barred by the best men of his class for various reasons. One time it was his color, and another because his record wasn't a model of probity. This latter cause of disbarment hasn't been haunted so much of late—small wonder when it is remembered how many bright and shining lights of pugilism the breath of scandal has touched—and now scabbed-skinned Jack is barred simply because he is Johnson. At this writing the outlook for a championship fight with Johnson in it isn't quite so dull and desperate, because, Tommy Burns, the present champion, has said he will tackle the colored fighter when he returns from England. But all kinds of things may happen before Tommy gets back from the tight little isle, and as at the best the Johnson-Burns affair is merely a prospect based on a promise, the fight in hand—that is, the Flynn-Johnson one—appeals to the sports better than something that may happen in the dim and distant future.

The go between Johnson and Flynn will be in all respects an elimination bout and the circumstances suggest that it will be a bitterly fought one. Flynn is a fellow with great pluck and endurance, and ambition as boundless as Sailor Sharkey possessed in the early years of his career.

It may be that Flynn will never be able to sign himself champion of the world, but depend upon it, if he misses his mark as a ringman it won't be through a lack of self-reliance. He grabbed at the chance to meet Johnson as readily as he would have lent himself to a clash with any of the scrub heavies with which the game abounds. When asked by a blundering sport if he REALLY thought he had a chance to defeat Johnson he replied: "Why, mister, there isn't a colored fighter in the world who can defeat me."

Johnson, who has the confidence which comes with experience, regards the Flynn affair as a stepping stone to a match with Burns, and by the same token knows that a poor showing with the Pueblo heavy will spoil his chance of getting on with Burns. Such being the case, Johnson will try to do himself proud when he enters the ring with Flynn at Croft's Mission-street arena on the afternoon of the 26th.

BURNS' OFF FOR ENGLAND.

Tommy Burns has announced his departure for England, where a match with Gunner Moir awaits him. But there's many a slip 'twixt the cup and the lip, and it shouldn't surprise me to learn that Tommy had postponed his invasion of Great Britain.

The sport of the ring is in a thriving condition here just at present, and Tommy isn't the kind of fellow to ignore that time-honored adage which advises human beings to make hay while the sun shines.

Tommy has thrown out a hint that he will carry here if some one will guarantee him $30,000 as his share of a Jack Johnson-Tommy Burns fight. Time was, and not so long ago, when any one of a half-dozen brand new Nevada mining camps would have thought nothing of giving Burns what he asks for, but just at present a profound silence has fallen upon the desert gold country, that is, so far as hollering for high-priced ring events is concerned.

TOMMY IS ANGELIC.

Of course a Johnson-Burns affair would seem to be the final tussle in the world's championship series, and it may be that Nevada will sit up again and take notice. Even if no voice comes from the wilderness, it wouldn't surprise some of us to learn that Burns had shaded his figure and hearkened to the wiles of a city promoter.

If anything like that happens it will have to be within the next few days, and at that it is doubtful if any arrangement Burns could enter into now would have the effect of canceling the Flynn-Johnson match. If Tommy can be prevailed upon to forego his trip to England it will probably be with the understanding that he is to box the winner of the Flynn-Johnson fight.

Tommy swears he hasn't said all the mean things about his brother heavies that have been attributed to him recently. He declares that he did not refer to Jack

Burns Is to Sail for Merry Old England.America's Champ Going to Meet the Pickle Champ at National Sporting Club.

(Twin) Sullivan as a cur, but he admits he spoke disparagingly of Jack Johnson, even to the extent of questioning the colored heavy's stoutness. But Tommy can scarcely deny that, he described Jack the Twin as a "joke," and that he also referred to others in his class as "jokes." When he did so he didn't stop to think that if big Jim Jeffries came out suddenly and said, "I am back in the ring and want to fight Jack Johnson for the world's championship," the whole heavy-weight situation, outside of Jeffries and Johnson, would appear as one big joke.

GANS' RETIREMENT.

Joe Gans has gone out of the fighting game temporarily, and the lightweight championship has something in common with the heavyweight. Both Gans and Jeffries come back and are beaten or are attacked with something like senile decay, it's little use of talking of new champions in the classes these men lorded it over.

The shadows of uncertainty and gloom to make any pugilistic situation, and among lights and heavies the scraps of the near future will simply decide who is "next best."

Gans is quoted as saying that Jimmy Burns, the young fellow, is recently defeated in Los Angeles, has it on Balding Nelson and all other championship candidates. The pity of it is, though, that Burns cannot do "133 ringside," and such being the case he is not in a position to say that he will usurp Gans' title and defend it.

Ringside weighing, by the way, should be frowned upon. It is offering a premium on crookedness, for many a man cannot put up a decent fight at it. It was ringside weighing that was responsible for most of Gans' blackbelling in the years before he reformed. He often managed to "get there" as weak as a kitten, and in many cases asking an opponent to weigh at the ringside means, "I wouldn't care to tackle you if you were good and strong."

If boxing is to continue, the promoters, even if they cannot agree on any other point, should be of one mind in squelching ringside weighing. Then ticket-purchasers will see fewer unsatisfactory bouts.

KETCHEL AND THOMAS.

Just as soon as Young Ketchel and Joe Thomas begin training for their "Thanks giving bout" interest in the meeting will be awakened. The former contests between these young hustlers is the best guarantee that the "war" will fly when they get together at Recreation Park in November.

Old Leaguers to Organize Again

The "Old Leaguers," who held the aging twenty years or under and whom were twenty-three of twenty-five games played as again reorganizing.

Seven of the old players have signed, being: Laurie O'Connell, the whirlwind pitcher, first baseman "King" Whalen, who has been playing the initial sack second to none in the bushes. The key-stone sack will be taken care of by "Slivers" Clarke, who has just returned from the Southern brush.

The hitting kid, Tom Fitzsimmons, will be seen at short.

While "Demon" Patterson, who led the Northern California League in batting, will be back in the gardens. The new man signed is Louie Perotti, the crack Richmond catcher; third baseman Van, who has been playing fast ball and outfielder Herkenham, whose batting and fielding will help some.

Another outfielder will be signed shortly.

Weir Wins Three Cushion Game

In a game that was replete with sensational cushion play, Mr. Weir defeated O'Connor on Friday night's match at Kear's Billiard parlors. It was a close contest and any one's game from start to finish. Neither principal seemed particularly distressed, regarding nervousness, and this fact allowed of cooler calculation and greater accuracy in play.

Squire and Oaks will blossom on Monday evening and the "Red Dog" and other rosters will be there in force.

The tourney is causing considerable of a ripple in our burg owing to the fact that the best four as developed in this tourney will meet the best in San Francisco for the Bay counties championship.

MAKE PLANS FOR THEATER

Propose Still Another Playhouse With Business Block of Arcade Design

There is a project on foot for the purpose of erecting still another theater in this city. For some time past, with this purpose in view, there have been in progress negotiations for the lease of the property bounded by San Pablo avenue and Broadway on the west and east respectively and Sixteenth street on the north.

When this property was acquired by its present owners, several years ago, the idea was entertained that some day it would be used both for the purpose of affording amusements to the people as well as enlarging the business district of this city.

Since that time there have been a number of applicants who desired to secure the place, but there has been such a rush of business in many lines that there has been no opportunity to bring the project to a close.

FOR BUSINESS ALSO.

The people who are now considering the project of erecting a new temple of amusement are perfecting plans for the structure which is contemplated will comprise not only a magnificent theater but will include surroundings which will accommodate those who are bent on the transaction of business as well as those who are in search of amusement.

Aside from the theater proper, if the project should eventually be decided upon there will be an arcade, after the style of those attractive features of municipal life in Europe. In this arcade, which in the old world is known as a "passage," there will be a number of stores and from these there will be quite an amount of revenue for the projectors.

The men who are behind the scheme are men of experience in both the theatrical and business world. They desire a lease for a number of years and have now reached the point of asking an option on the property.

FRESH FROM JAPAN AND SCOUTS WAR TALK

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—T. D. McKay, better known as "Tom," representative of the Japanese lines in the Orient, arrived on the steamer China yesterday. McKay says his health has not been good for some time and that he has come home solely for a rest.

But he still has the same genial smile, is the same "glad hand" artist and still supports the famous diamond scarf pin, the stone of which is fully the size of a dime.

"It is marvelous," he said, "how many buildings have been erected since I was here, just a year ago. I can hardly realize that so much work has been accomplished in so short a time. I shall return to Japan in about two months."

When asked regarding the possibilities of the United States becoming involved in a war with Japan, McKay said: "There is nothing to it. The people of Japan are too busy trying to control the trade of the Pacific to think of war. And they are not worrying over the coming trip of our Atlantic squadron to this coast, either. Of course, there are a few radicals in Japan the same as everywhere, but the majority of the people are for trade, not war."

WOMEN TRAMPLE BABE IN SHOPPING RUSH

KANSAS CITY, Oct. 5.—Three thousand persons, mostly women, some carrying babies, attempted to crowd into a 10-cent store that had just opened here in Main street, today. A semi-panic resulted. A dozen women trampled a baby was trampled upon but not seriously hurt, and three women were slightly injured.

ROYALTY TO WED POLICEMAN

Italian Marchioness Falls in Love With Officer Who Answers Call

ROME, Oct. 5.—An extraordinary love romance in high Roman society is causing an immense sensation. The Marchioness Seraphina "Sachetti," belonging to one of the best known aristocratic families of Rome, bound up with the fortunes of the papacy since the fourteenth century, is about to marry a brigadier of the military police named Santo Scalfetti. The Marchioness made his acquaintance this summer while holiday-making at the seaside town of Nettuno, near Rome, where she had retired with her little son upon the death of her young husband.

The Marchioness experienced much trouble with a male cook, and fearing that he would poison her, she applied to the police for aid. It was then that Scalfetti appeared upon the scene. The Marchioness soon began to experience permanent need of his protection.

Her family discovered that both were wounded by Cupid's darts and procured Scalfetti's removal to Sardinia, but the young policeman sent in his resignation a few days after his exile and rejoined the Marchioness. Not only have her princely parents' threats proved vain, but also Pope Pius X's personal intervention, and the couple will be married soon.

ALLEGED MISTRIAL IN UPSON LIBEL CASE

The attorneys in the Upson libel suit have notified the Oakland Police Court that they will sue for a writ of habeas corpus in behalf of their client who has been sentenced to one year in the city prison.

They allege that Judge Tappan had no legal right to render judgment in the case as the law reads that for one judge to sit in another's stead requires a written request from the absent judge.

W. B. Smith, police clerk, says that he has a letter from Judge Smith to Judge Tappan dated on September 29 in which Judge Tappan is requested to take the court until October 25, and that all proceedings were in accordance with the law.

The United Physicians and Surgeons 517 23d STREET Near Telegraph Ave., OAKLAND, CAL.

Doctors That Can Cure AND DO CURE SICK MEN

ARE YOU SUFFERING FROM ANY PRIVATE DISEASE?

TAKE WARNING—Professor David Starr Jordan, president of STANFORD UNIVERSITY SAYS it would improve the race if a famine came every seven years and DESTROYED WEAK MEN. OPEN YOUR EYES BEFORE IT IS TOO LATE. THE WHOLE WORLD LOVES STRONG MEN. NATURE INTENDED you to be strong and vigorous up to a ripe old age. IF YOU ARE NOT THE MAN YOU OUGHT TO BE don't procrastinate, don't let your bashfulness and delicacy about such matters rob you of your happiness and birth right.

IF you persist in going to those who PUBLISH FAKE PHOTOGRAPHS and advertise FREAK MUSEUMS or ELECTRICITY FAKIRS HOW CAN YOU EXPECT TO BE CURED?

CONTRACTED DISORDERS A MENACE

AT THE FIRST SIGN OF ANY CONTRACTED DISORDER YOU SHOULD SEEK THE SERVICES OF A THOROUGHLY RELIABLE SPECIALIST. IF YOU DO NOT YOU ARE TAKING GRAVE CHANCES, AND THIS YOU CAN NOT AFFORD TO DO. BADLY TREATED OR NEGLECTED GONORRHOEA WILL LEAD TO THAT CHRONIC CONDITION KNOWN AS GLEET, AND THIS IN TURN MEANS THAT SOON YOU WILL NOT BE ABLE TO PERFORM THE GREAT VITAL FUNCTIONS IN A SATISFACTORY WAY. YOU WILL BE AN OLD, WEAK MAN WHEN YOU SHOULD BE FULL OF LIFE, VIGOR AND PERFECT MANHOOD.

BY OUR methods we are enabled to reach the vital spot with our direct treatment, which drives every disease germ from the system by going to the root of the disorder. WE INVARIABLY obtain prompt and satisfactory results because our searching examination brings to light the nature and extent of the trouble.

SEXUAL WEAKNESS

NO MATTER IN WHAT FORM THOSE FUNCTIONAL DERANGEMENTS COMMONLY TERMED "WEAKNESS" MAY APPEAR, THE CAUSATIVE CONDITIONS ARE IN FULLY 95 PER CENT OF THE CASES, VERY SIMILAR. WE HAVE GIVEN THE CLOSEST POSSIBLE STUDY TO THIS REMARKABLY PREVALENT ALIMENT AND FIND THAT IN PRACTICALLY EVERY CASE OF PREMATURE EJACULATION, NIGHT OR DAY LOSSES, IMPOTENCY, ETC., THERE EXISTS AT SOME VITAL POINT OF THE SEXUAL SYSTEM A STATE OF CHRONIC TENDERNES, INFLAMMATION OR CONGESTION. OUR FIRST STEP IS A THOROUGH EXAMINATION TO ASCERTAIN THE EXACT LOCATION AND NATURE OF THE DISORDER, AFTER WHICH BY A SYSTEM OF CAREFULLY DIRECTED LOCAL TREATMENT, WE RESTORE THE AFFECTED PART TO ITS NORMAL CONDITION, WHICH PROMPTLY RESULTS IN FULL AND COMPLETE RETURN OF SEXUAL POWER. IN PERHAPS LESS THAN 3 PER CENT OF THE CASES DO WE FIND GENERAL IMPROVEMENT, LACK OF NERVOUS ENERGY, OR ANY OTHER CONDITIONS OR COMPLICATIONS REQUIRING CONSTITUTIONAL TREATMENT.

OUR CURES ARE POSITIVE, COMPLETE, THOROUGH AND PERMANENT, BECAUSE BY OUR METHODS THE REAL AND ONLY CAUSE OF THE FUNCTIONAL WEAKNESS IS TOTALLY REMOVED. THE KNOWLEDGE GAINED BY CLOSE STUDY AND OBSERVATION IN THOUSANDS OF CASES ENABLES US TO RECOGNIZE THE EXACT REQUIREMENTS AND TREAT ACCORDINGLY, AND IN YEARS WE HAVE NOT FAILED IN A SINGLE INSTANCE TO ACCOMPLISH THE DESIRED RESULTS.

SPECIFIC BLOOD POISON (Syphilis)

Don't Pay Doctors for Poison

Thousands of sufferers are paying doctors for poison. All doctors know that poison can't cure, but they don't tell you so. If you only knew what was in the stuff you take for medicine, you wouldn't swallow it. That's why doctors don't tell you.

Nearly all drugs are doped with poison of some kind. Poison is the base of the doctor's prescription. He uses it in nearly every case he treats. Without poison, doctors who use drugs could not ease pain for a moment.

It is poison that stops pain, temporarily, by stupefying the nerves, but the pain comes back after the effect of the dope has passed off and you have to take the drug again. All that makes business for the doctor. It is to his interest that you take his dope as long as possible.

Every minute that drugs give relief they are busily engaged in doing harm. They destroy the delicate lining of the stomach and weaken the nerves. They mix with the digestive juices, causing poor digestion and constipation. Every part of your vitals that is affected by drugs is weakened by them.

There's only one way to cure any ailment. That way is to assist Nature. Drugs don't do that. Nature is the best doctor, and sometimes will accomplish a cure in spite of drugs. Then drugs get the credit for what Nature alone did.

The help Nature needs is electricity. It's the power that runs the machinery of your body, and most all ailments are due to the failure or breaking down of some vital part, the stomach, liver, kidneys, heart or nerves. The reason any organ fails to work properly is because it hasn't the power—electricity. Restore this force where it is needed and pain and sickness will disappear. I do this with Electro-Vigor.

Electro-Vigor is an electric body battery, applied while you sleep. It sends a stream of electric life into every nerve and tissue of the body, building up vitality, strength, and removing the cause of disease.

Electricity as applied by Electro-Vigor does not shock or blister. The only sensation is a mild, soothing glow.

Electro-Vigor is not an electric belt. It never needs charging, for it makes its own power continuously.

Electro-Vigor is a great success. It has cured people all over the West whom drugs had failed to benefit.

Electro-Vigor has proven all you claim for it. It cured me of diarrhoea and bowel trouble.

Winthrop, Cal.

When I began the use of your electric treatment I was an invalid, unable to walk, and had no strength or energy. Electro-Vigor restored my health and put strength into my body, and I can do so much work as most any woman. I have not taken a dose of medicine since I began its use, and the good your appliance has done me has been worth more than one hundred times what it cost.

Your treatment is certainly a great blessing to humanity.

MRS. J. F. PICKLE, Potter Valley, Cal.

OAKLAND THEATERS STILL DOING BIG BUSINESS

COLONIAL SEPTETTE AT THE OAKLAND ORPHEUM

ORPHEUM HAS SCORED A SUCCESS FROM START

'Salomy Jane' Will Be Seen at the Macdonough Theater for Three Nights During the Week.

"Salomy Jane," Paul Armstrong's drama of the golden days of California, which is now conceded to be a dramatic success, will be presented by Liebler & Co. at the Macdonough on October 7, 8 and 9. It is a fervid tale of human interest, tingling with situations of interest and telling in capital fashion a story of real men and real women. There are no long stretches of wearisome dialogue, no cheap society chatter, but action all the time. When an audience interrupts with vigorous applause an important scene it is surely moved beyond its worth. And nightly during its long New York run this happened so often that it could be played on a bare stage with the fewest accessories and yet be tensely interesting, for its feeling, its naive and primitive incidents and its humanity.

Lynch law, the necessity of physical courage, strong and crude love, simple standards of loyalty, wild and free life and the necessity of each one taking his fate into his own hands and judging for himself makes the western setting a thoroughly sympathetic one. If it were only for the magnificent scenery the play would be immensely attractive. At the rise of the curtain a gigantic forest of California redwoods, massive, of imagined loftiness, disclose a section of their grandeur to the astonished eye, and the odor of the great pine forest flows through the theater. The second act has another view of this forest with a miner's shack in the foreground, the third act another view of the Salomy Jane's home and the fourth in the coral and the edge of the trees, with a view of a far valley in the early dawn, is one of the most beautiful scenes ever shown upon the American or any other stage.

ORPHEUM THEATER. The town has given a magnificent reception to the advanced vaudeville show at the new Orpheum during the past week and there is now no doubt of the brilliant future which the temple of vaudeville on Twelfth street is to enjoy in Oakland from this time on. Crowds have packed the playhouse nightly and the matinees have been attended by thousands of shoppers and society people.

The new theater is so handsome and so comfortable and the program so vastly superior to anything in the city that it is a wonder that it is not a success from the start.

KATHERINE KERTWOOD

which the novel of "The Pit" is founded, which has been made into one of the best American plays ever written. Lillian Starkhart, who has scored a very great hit with theater-goers in Oakland during the past week and established herself as a prime favorite, will remain another week and is to stage a new comedy drama entitled "Deal on Change" by Edmund Day. The scene of the play is laid in Wall street and there is abundance of quick, snappy wit to the lines and novelty to the situations. Miss Starkhart will display an entirely different side of her art in this drama to that which she has shown during the past week in her performance of the young widow in "A Passing Fancy."

The brilliant spectacle and musical fantasy with "O'Hana San & Co." have produced during the last week will be continued for seven days more. The brilliant colorings, the Japanese costumes, songs and dances and delightful light effects shown in the production make the act of O'Hana San & Co. one of the greatest features of last week's bill, and its continuance for another week will doubtless please the Orpheum patrons. Mr. and Mrs. Jimmie Barry, funny makers, are to stay another week. They will be seen in a new sketch by Mrs. Barry called "A Skin Game." Mrs. Barry will sing and Mr. Barry will exhibit his cleverness in various ways and together the duo are quite certain to repeat their big hit of last week.

YE LIBERTY PLAYHOUSE. The Bishop players will travel "The Love Route" for the last time this afternoon and evening at Ye Liberty playhouse and any one who enjoys a charming story of love and adventure can find it in this play. Commencing tomorrow evening the "Liberty's" biggest success, "The Love Route," will be given for the last time. The response to the "Love Route" has been so much has been written about this play, about Frank Norris, the writer of the novel; Channing Pollock, the dramatist, and about its story, that an account of the "Love Route" would probably prove of more than ordinary interest to those who have read the novel and seen the play and many who are to see it next week. It was in 1898 that Joseph Leiter, son of the multi-millionaire, capitalist and street-car owner, made his first venture into the pit. Taking advantage of the unsettled conditions prevailing just before the President was elected, he bought wheat at a price around 70 cents. Following the election of William McKinley to the Presidency, a new era of prosperity set in and the prices went up. Leiter unloaded his supply and it is said that he made over $1,000,000. Thinking that he could repeat the trick with more profit, he began to buy up the new crop and the summer of that year saw him buying wheat around 60 cents and it is said that he made over $1,000,000. Leiter realized the shortage in the market and kept on buying and forcing the price. In the fall of '97 wheat was sold at $1.10 a bushel, and it is said that he controlled more than 60,000 bushels. It was then that the late Philip D. Armour, forced to take some steps to protect himself, sent his agents to the Northwest to buy up all the available wheat. It was a fight for supremacy and for a fortune between the two millionaires. In May of 1898 Leiter had wheat selling for $1.35, and the prospect was that the Armour force it up above $2, but the ice broke and the Armour fleet came down the great lakes with its holds full of grain and dumped it into the Chicago market. Leiter tried in vain to stand the tide, but the Armour millions were too strong. It was a titanic struggle and the scenes on the wheat pit will never be forgotten. Brokers, crazy with excitement, forgot families and everything else to save themselves from ruin. The price tottered and fell way down to 63 cents. Leiter lost, and with him had gone a fortune of $15,000,000, while the Armour combination did not escape unscathed, and it is said among the ranks of Trade members that the losses incurred by Mr. Armour worried him so much that it finally brought on the illness which led to his death.

WALTER FREDERICK

"Mrs. Dane's Defense," with Isabelle Fletcher as Mrs. Dane, is announced for the following week. The new stock company which made its first appearance at the Columbia Theater last Monday night has made a decided impression on the patrons of the amusement places of Oakland and it has been pronounced by the critics as one of the best that has appeared in Oakland for years. With each night last week the attendance grew, which means that the patrons who witnessed the new company's first efforts were pleased. Tomorrow night a change in the bill will be presented when "Brown" in Town, one of America's best farce comedies, will be presented. The play is out in three acts, each one being a side-splitter of laughter, the ridiculous situations and complicated tangles of the newly married couple who have been united in secret are of such character that one wonders how the author ever conceived such a tangle. Brown is the assumed name of the young bridegroom. In the hope that he will be able to keep the secret from his friends his wife in helping him only makes things worse and until the final act the auditors are in a constant guess as to how it will end. "The Love Route" is the leading man has made such inroads on the public's approval, will have the title role as the badly twisted bridegroom. Henry Auerbach makes his first appearance in this play. William De la Roche, a comedian, will also be seen in the cast, which the managers claim is a strong one.

BELL THEATRE. "We have a program for the coming week that will surprise the patrons of the Bell because of its unusual excellence," is the announcement of Manager Cohn of the Bell Theatre. In the past and we will fulfill the promise that the show the coming week will be the best the Bell has ever offered its patrons. Frank Bacon, the popular Ye Liberty comedian, who has made such a hit at the Bell this week, is to be retained another week. He will present an original sketch entitled "An Easy Lie." The sketch was inspired by the character of Geo. Whittaker Hay in "The Love Route." William De la Roche, a comedian, will also be seen in the cast, which the managers claim is a strong one.

LOUIS JAMES. Louis James and his excellent company are coming this way and will be one of the early attractions. Mr. James this season is devoting his entire repertoire to Shakespearean comedy and making specially elaborate productions of "The Comedy of Errors" and "The Merry Wives of Windsor." His company is said to be an especially clever one and the productions spoken of as exceptionally massive and effective. He will appear at the Macdonough Theater October 14, 15 and 16 and at a Wednesday matinee.

GEORGIA MINSTRELS. By adhering to the good old style of minstrelsy Richards & Pringle's minstrels, who will appear here shortly, have established for themselves a reputation. For twenty-eight years the visits of Richards & Pringle's Georgia Minstrels have been recorded. This season these gentlemen have fairly eclipsed themselves in organizing a company of colored artists. Clarence Powell heads the list. This colored comedian has made many people laugh. The program promised will be on the old-time minstrel order, the same as made minstrelsy so famous in years past. Sweet, southern melodies, music, dances and witty comments make up a program that is bound to please and interest. The company travel in their own car. The noon-day parade and evening band concert will be given as usual. They appear at the Macdonough Theater, Sunday matinee and night, October 6.

NOVELTY THEATER. That well-known minstrel comedian, George Thatcher, late of the Thatcher, Primrose & West Minstrels, and remembered as the colored man in the last production of the "County Chairman," is to appear at the Novelty Theater next week in his famous minstrel monologue. Mr. Thatcher is probably better known to the older generation than he is to the younger, but there was a time not so many years ago either that the name of George Thatcher on a three-sheet on the billboards was the sure sign of a crowded house, and judging by the way he is attracting attention in the vaudeville houses he has lost none of his old-time drawing powers. His engagement at the Novelty is limited to the one week only. Another important announcement for next week is the engagement of the well-known actress, Una Clayton, and her excellent company in that exquisite comedy sketch, "What's in a Name." This is the act that has caused so much favorable comment from the press of San Francisco. Della Stacey, the burlesque queen, is another of the Novelty's bookings for next week. The other acts on the bill will be the following: Arlington and Houston, in a novelty dancing number entitled "At the Masquerade," and James Dunn, the famous mimic and imitator. Two new reels of imported motion pictures and the above high-class bill should surely attract vaudeville lovers to the Novelty next week.

THIN'S THRONE STAINED

Castellane Angry Over Coming Marriage.

BY THE MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.

PARIS, Oct. 5.—I was the first to announce in these columns some six weeks ago the approaching marriage of the daughter of Prince Roland Bonaparte to the son of the King of Greece. But a thing I could not announce, because it could not be foreseen, was the enthusiasm caused by the news of this union, which is now officially confirmed, among the conservative classes and monarchical parties generally.

But it is impossible for me—and I am sure that Americans, who have so just a sense of social dignity, will share my opinion—it is impossible for me, I say, to avoid protesting against this marriage, which makes it possible that one day the grandson of a keeper of a gambling house may be placed upon a throne.

TOOK WORLD'S MONEY.
I am, of course, referring to the famous M. Blane, who for thirty years at Monaco (Monte Carlo) filled the position of chief croupier and with a smile upon his lips raked in the money of the whole world at the cost of ruin and self-murder.

The immense fortune of Princess Bonaparte, the coming bride, is hence an ill-gotten one, and one which, therefore, a king's son cannot accept for his own without disgracing himself. If our monarchies are no longer capable of affirming and upholding public morality, I would like to know what they are good for.

If Prince George of Greece had been able to ask his grandfather, the old King of Denmark—whom we call the grandfather of Europe—whether he could with honor marry the granddaughter of a croupier, the old king would without a doubt have replied: "A throne, young man, is not a gambling hell."

FAIR OF KISSES.
Transylvania, although not particularly famous in Europe, deserves attention on the part of tourists, who would find there some remarkable but interesting manners. Thus one finds there a fair in existence which, without any artistic panache, is called the fair of kisses. It falls on the day of St. Theodore, when the women first offer their cheeks, and then their pots of eau de vie made of plums, to the lips of the lads who please them. A kiss and a mouthful are partaken of, and in exchange they pocket a small monetary consideration.

There are no young girls and no widows at the fair—only married women, without their husbands, but, on the other hand, under the protection of their mothers-in-law.

PEASANT COURTSHIP.
Among other interesting habits of Transylvania is the fair of young girls, the most celebrated of which takes place at Mount Gaius. The young peasant women in quest of husbands repair thither in a cart carrying with them their trousseau in beautifully decorated trunks, and the young fellows come on horseback, also with their worldly fortunes contained in their belts.

Then they look at each other and examine each other, then the girl weighs the lad's belt and the youth opens the maiden's bottom. The agreement is sealed by the exchange of two embroidered handkerchiefs, which are carried ostentatiously for this purpose. Shortly they will marry, and next year the young wife will take her place at the fair of kisses held at Asladjoud.

Is not Transylvania a delightful country?

Police Report on Bomb Tragedy

DUBLIN, Oct. 5.—The police have made their report on the attempt made on the night of August 15th to wreck by means of a bomb a hunting lodge of Lord Ashdown at Clonmel, Ireland, when his lordship was asleep within the building.

Lord Ashdown is one of the landlords whose activity in the cattle grazing war has aroused the most bitter animosity, and he declared that the outrage, which he characterized as an attempt upon his life, was the work of peasants from the west of Ireland.

The police declare that the bomb which did the damage was constructed from a pot that previously had been used at the residence of Lord Ashdown, and that the powder used in the missile corresponds with powder found at the lodge.

SCORE OF OPERA BY VERDI IS FOUND

Discovered in Old Chest of Papers

(BY PAUL VILLIERS.)
PARIS, Oct. 4.—A complete score of a new opera by Verdi, the existence of which has hitherto been unknown, has been discovered here in an old chest full of manuscripts and other papers which formerly belonged to the famous musician.

It was the composition of this opera which occupied some of the latter months of Verdi's life. As to Verdi's special request all musical scores which were found among his effects after his death were to be destroyed, it is improbable that this opera will ever be produced.

GALLERY BENEFITS.
The two chief picture galleries, the Louvre and the Luxembourg, have benefited handsomely by the will of M. Audouin, who has just died. The Luxembourg comes in for a picture by Roybet, "Louis XIII as a Child," while the Louvre receives all the rest of the testator's pictures, including specimens by Fragonard and Boucher and other valuable works, and, moreover, the whole of his fortune, consisting of several million francs, two houses at Paris and Neuilly and a villa at Luxor (Egypt).

The money thus generously bequeathed is to be devoted to supplying the Louvre with an increased staff of guards to prevent the outrages that have been taking place there. But it will necessarily be a short while before the money falls into the coffers of the State gallery, and meanwhile several of the galleries are being shut up to keep out undesirable characters in the only way possible—until, as is now proposed, the State decides to charge for admission to the Louvre.

UNVEIL QUEEN'S BODY AFTER 3300 YEARS

One of the most interesting discoveries of Egyptologists is the recent uncovering of a tomb in the mysterious land of a famous queen who lived and loved, and reigned 3300 years ago. The body was sheathed in gold, and around the neck of the royal woman was a golden necklace bearing lily-shaped clasps. The accompanying picture shows the body as taken from the excavation.

WEALTHY WOMAN OWNS A $100,000 RACEHORSE

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Mrs. H. V. Jackson, an American by birth, owns in Velocity a horse estimated to be worth $100,000, which was sold as a yearling by the breeder, a Rosecroft horse-keeper, for $150. This year Velocity has won in England the Doncaster Cup, the Chester Stakes at Goodwood, and the City and Suburban, the value of the three prizes being $10,000. In addition, he ran fourth in the Jubilee Stakes, and was fourth in the Lincoln Handicap. His great win was the grand prize at Ostend, worth over $10,000. Mrs. Jackson has a breeding stud in County Mayo, Ireland. She owns two fairly good race horses in Desmond's Gift and Barcelona Park. She is fond of wearing her own colors at race meetings—white and violet hoods.

CUPID GAINS PARDON

Daughter of Army Officer Aids Father.

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—The minister of war, General Rodzicki, has been romantically married to Miss Holstchevnikoff, daughter of one of the czar's condemned and disgraced generals.

General Holstchevnikoff was military governor of the Siberian town of Chita during the revolution of October, 1905. Chita was the center of the outbreak. The rebels took possession of the town, cut all communication, deposed the civil authorities and demanded the surrender of the czar's forces. The governor's position was hopeless.

General Holstchevnikoff was armed and organized, and led by revolutionary officers, held a great meeting in the town hall. An ultimatum was dispatched to Holstchevnikoff demanding that he should hand over the telegraph offices and barracks to the provisional government. Finding his request for reinforcements ignored, Holstchevnikoff surrendered. He consented to parley with the rebels, attended the revolutionary parliament at their demand and agreed to all their terms.

MARKED AS TRAITOR.
Soon afterward the rebellion was crushed. The ferocious Cossack, Benenkamp, shot and hanged mercilessly, and put Holstchevnikoff before a court-martial as a traitor to the czar. Holstchevnikoff was condemned to death from the army with ignominy and to life-long imprisonment.

Holstchevnikoff pleaded for pardon to the czar. He declared that his apparent treason was the result of a misunderstanding. He said that the revolution his troops would have destroyed, and all East Siberia would have succeeded from the empire. But the czar was obstinate. When Holstchevnikoff appealed to War Minister Rodzicki he received a curt reply that no pardon would be granted.

Miss Holstchevnikoff declared she would not marry the disgraced one day, unknown to her parents, she presented herself to the "unrelenting minister," and pleaded for her father's cause so eloquently that sudden change took place in the relations of the government to its ex-servant. Holstchevnikoff, unexpectedly, was asked to send in a more detailed explanation. Three months passed. Finally a further exchange of letters took place. In the last of which Rodzicki announced that "the czar had been pleased to accord Lieutenant-General Holstchevnikoff a complete pardon."

Queens Race 20 Miles in Autos

BRUSSELS, Belgium, Oct. 5.—Belgium's future queen and the reigning queen of Holland had a twenty-mile race in automobiles in Zealand last week; it has just come to light. Both royal women are credit motorists, and from the facts which have leaked out, it appears to have been a carefully prearranged contest of speed and feminine skill as chauffeurs.

Zealand is the southernmost province of Holland, on the border of Belgium. This place evidently was chosen because it was the most convenient meeting place.

Princess Elizabeth of Belgium was accompanied by her husband, Prince Albert, while Prince Consort Henry rode with Queen Wilhelmina.

The start was made from Middelburg, and it is said that Princess Elizabeth won by five hundred yards.

Princess Elizabeth is known here as the "Yankee Princess," owing to her practical turn of mind, in seeming contrast to her artistic tastes. Some time ago she founded a cooking school for ladies in reduced circumstances in Brussels. She has now followed this up with a school of millinery, where young women of the middle and upper classes can, by a six months' course of study, become accomplished modistes. The Princess is a regular visitor in this establishment and throws out hints and suggestions to the pupils herself.

A celebrated Parisian dressmaker, after having made a tour of the continent extending from Lisbon to Bucharest, declared:

"Princess Elizabeth of Belgium is the best-gowned Princess in Europe today. She is a natural born artist, as we all know, and her artistic temperament is particularly evident in her manner of dressing. The Princess, as a matter of fact, designs her own gowns. Her latest creation is an adaptation of the prevalent Byzantine fashion—a violet blouse and skirt trimmed with Byzantine embroidery and gold-threaded lace. The patterns for this embroidery were made by Princess Elizabeth herself, and is perhaps the most artistic design of the kind I have yet seen."

Marriage Oddly Involves Natives

PARIS, Oct. 5.—The marriage of Prince George of Greece and Princess Marie Bonaparte will raise some curious problems in etiquette. The President of France will be represented at the marriage, but the Republic and Greece is a friendly nation, but as Prince Victor Napoleon is a near relative of the bride he will have precedence over the President's representative, now Prince Victor is one of the Pretenders to the throne of France, so that in a marriage with a French subject he will appear to be representing the country.

LONDON, Oct. 4.—Mrs. Clayton (Zlor) Glyn, who is on the steamship Cedric, which is due in New York next Friday, is going to America not only to see her American publishers but to study the Americans for a new novel dealing with American society life. Clayton Glyn and her two daughters saw her off.

Her latest book, the risky character of which has given rise to spirited correspondence here as to whether it should have been published, was withheld from publication, it is said, for some months owing to the objections of her husband, but finally he permitted himself to be persuaded by his talented wife and others.

BERLIN WITHOUT DEBT

PRESIDENT OF LIBERIA VISITS KING IN BUCKINGHAM PALACE

LONDON, Oct. 4.—The negro president of the Liberian Republic, Arthur Barclay, who was received this week by the King at Buckingham Palace—represents one of the most curious little communities in the wide world. Three of the most important portfolios in the government—War, Admiralty, and Interior—are vacant. The Republic has its own national flag, system of postage, stamps, in which the fauna of the country figure largely, including the elephant, gorilla, stork, hippopotamus, and lizard; a decoration (the insignia of the Liberian Order of African Freedom); and a government seal, in which a dove, a palm tree, and a ship are the principal emblems. In 1865 three hundred West Indians, mainly from the British West Indies, migrated to Liberia, and among them was a little boy—Arthur Barclay—whose father was a free negro. The president has had a long career in the public service.

CITY OWNS GAS WORKS

Public Ownership Brings Riches to People.

BY MALCOLM CLARKE.

BERLIN, Sunday, Oct. 5.—The city authorities of Berlin are justly proud of the fact that while the immensely rich metropolis of America, New York, finds it hard to dispose of her bonds at a rate of interest which is very close to usury, according to European ideas, the city of Berlin will not have to borrow any money for years to come.

Not only does the city budget for the present fiscal year show no deficit, but there will even be a surplus of not less than fifteen million marks.

To the advocates of municipal ownership in the United States this fact will furnish a splendid argument, for the surplus in question is all derived from the gas works owned and operated by the city of Berlin, which have proved enormously profitable, although the quality of the gas turned out is excellent, and it is sold to the consumers at a much cheaper price than the average price in the large cities of America.

The employees of the municipal gas works are well paid, entitled to a pension after twenty-five years' service, and are all insured against accidents by the city.

LAUGH AT CARNEGIE.

The German and Dutch press are making fun of the recent Peace Conference at The Hague, which adjourned a few weeks ago after deciding not to meet again until 1919.

"Poor old Carnegie," says a Berlin paper. "He may live to see his splendid Palace of Peace finished, but undoubtedly he will never see it used. For twelve years or possibly even more it will remain empty unless Carnegie consents to adopt the idea of the members of the Dutch Parliament, who suggested that it be used as a kindergarten until the peace idea grows stronger."

The police of Vienna have made two arrests in connection with the recent mysterious murder of Count Kanarowich at Venice, and the confessions which have been made revealed that the murder was not a political affair.

The persons under arrest are the Countess Turnovska, an extremely beautiful young woman, who is divorced from her husband, and a Russian lawyer named Priukow. The latter has confessed that Naumoff, who committed the murder, was really only the tool of the Countess, who planned the crime in order to get $100,000 for which the murdered man was insured. The Countess is said to be a descendant of an Irishman named O'Rourke who came to Russia about a century ago. Her husband divorced her because of her intrigues, and at the divorce trial she was represented by Priukow, who fell madly in love with her.

PAN GERMAN LEAGUE ANGERED AT EMPEROR

Dares to Tell the Kaiser He Is Wrong

(BY MALCOLM CLARK.)

BERLIN, Oct. 5.—The Pan-German League has, figuratively speaking, put its head into the lion's mouth by the resolution it adopted at its recent annual convention at Wiesbaden.

It has actually dared to tell the Kaiser that its members are greatly dissatisfied with his personal regime, as well as with the foreign policy of the German government, and demand the rapid construction of a formidable navy, that the country may be in a position to back up a more resolute and aggressive foreign policy with guns and torpedoes.

DISTRUSTS KING EDWARD.

The League wants no friendship with England or King Edward, whom it distrusts and suspects of working toward the absolute isolation of Germany.

"The Kaiser does not maintain the dignity of the country; he prostrates himself before the United States as a country, and goes out of his way to flatter and honor American millionaires, and if he does not change his ways he will lose the confidence of the German people."

This sounds very much like lese majeste, and somebody will surely suffer.

AGAINST LABOR UNIONS.

The weakening of the Russian revolution tionary movement continues to react heavily on Finnish affairs. The concessions gained by the Finnish people since 1906 are being threatened both from St. Petersburg and by the small class of reactionary Finns at home.

The reactionary movement is aimed against the working class. The reactionaries demand that the senate shall suppress all labor unions in the cities and towns because most of them are Socialistic. According to Finnish law, the senate, which is the executive government, cannot abolish any union or association without a judgment from the courts, and test cases are coming up for trial which threaten the existence of unions which have existed for more than ten years.

SOCIALISTS BUSY.

The Socialists are at present busy extending their organization and holding meetings of protest.

Another sign of the weakening of the Liberal movement is the agreement by three of the four great Finnish parties to pay the 20,000,000 marks demanded by Russia toward military expenditures.

The Socialists are the only ones holding out against the demand, though they are well aware that it is of no use.

MME. TOLSTOI TELLS CZAR ABOUT AMERICA Meet in Informal Audience

ST. PETERSBURG, Oct. 5.—Countess N. Tolstol, a near relative of the famous Russian novelist, Count Leo Tolstol, and daughter of a former great statesman, recently had an interview with the czar and his family, privately, in Peterhof. Countess Tolstol was in the United States three years ago and traveled more than a half year throughout the country. She traveled under the name Tichanova and lived four weeks in New York. This is the first interview with the czar from the beginning of the war and revolution written directly for a newspaper.

BY COUNTESS N. TOLSTOI.
I was invited by the private secretary of the czar to be the guest at tea of Her Majesty at Peterhof in the last month, and in the note it was said that I should bring with me some interesting things pertaining to my travels in America, "for their Majesties would be very much interested to hear you tell about the American life and news." I took everything I had and went.

A special imperial carriage took me from the station of Peterhof to the palace and I was led to the room appointed for me. In a half hour a court dame entered asking me to follow her to the apartments of Her Majesty. She took me warmly by the hand, saying: "I am very glad to meet you and listen to your interesting talks, and my husband will enjoy it. He will be surprised at meeting you, for I have not told him of your coming. It is very nice that you have come, and we will go immediately to my husband. He is in his writing room, and I beg you to be as free from ceremony as possible."

We walked through several very elegant apartments to the door of His Majesty's room. In the room near to the writing room of the czar stood two guard officers in their full uniforms. They greeted us very respectfully, and the czarine asked each of them: "Is His Majesty alone?"

The officers replied the Premier had just left His Majesty and we entered after the officer had opened the door. The czar was sitting at his table, reading over letters and documents. His face was very sad, but taking notice of our entrance he rose from the table and kissed the hands of the czarine.

CZAR IS PLEASED.
"Kolja," said the czarine to him, smiling, "I wish to surprise you by introducing the Countess without telling you, and she is here."

They spoke among themselves French or German, for the czarine does not speak good Russian. Our conversation also was in French.

"I am very, very glad to meet you," said the czar, stretching out his small hand. "Your father was always my good teacher, and he talks so perfectly like an orator. I have become interested in the experiences of your travels in America, and as I am interested in the life of that wonderful country I will be very much pleased if you could tell me something of its life and types. We will drink tea in the garden, and there I should like to listen to the stories."

The czarine sat at the writing table and the czar offered me a chair near to him. Just before me on the table was a long report by Premier Stolypin and a long report by Premier Stolypin and the other was crowded with similar reports in Russian. A letter by the Kaiser was before the czar. The czar was wearing a gray, civil dress, with high Russian boots. His face looked tired and nervous.

The czarine and I left him and went to our private apartments. A most beautiful view was offered from every window over the most extensive artificial park in the world and over the quiet Baltic sea. The chambermaid who was ordered for my service was a very pretty Caucasian girl and knew the estate of my father. I began to talk with her while I was dressing for tea.

"How long have you been here in the palace service?" I asked her.

"Four years and a half," she replied.

"Are you happy, being so near to His Majesty?"

"I don't know. I think I was more happy while I lived in the village and everything was going well. Do you think the people living here in palaces are happy in their power and wealth? Not at all. There is one trouble after another. Even their Majesties feel themselves very unhappy, and I have seen times when His Majesty has not slept, and has eaten nothing in two days. If I could tell freely all I have seen here, oh, you would be very much surprised. I was dressed, and the court dame entered again, asking me to come to tea. The tea was served on the veranda over the garden and the czar, the czarine, and their children came soon after. We sat at a table beautifully decorated with the full moon over our heads. The czar was dressed in a blue Russian national shirt and the czarine wore a picturesque national dress, with gorgeous gems. She looked very pretty.

I had not begun my talk as the Grand Duchess Tatiana shouted: "Please, Countess, tell me about the negro and Indian girls whom you saw in America and what they said to you." The czar put his hand on her mouth, saying: "But, my dear child, do not disturb the Countess. She herself will know better."

us. America is a wonderful country, indeed, and I have the greatest respect for an American."

TELLS OF FREEDOM.

I told of the great freedom prevailing in every place. Business matters seemed to interest the czar very much and he appreciated the American business spirit. The elections of the state and the federal officers was a new thing to him and he asked me for some pictures of the most popular political figures. Most of all he asked about the personalities of Roosevelt, Bryan, Edison and Hearst. He said he had the photographs of all of those men in his cabinet.

"But tell me of the American love stories, marriages and divorces," said the czar. "I have heard that a man or woman in America can marry and divorce as many times as they like and there are people who have been fifteen times married and divorced. Is it true that there is near New York a so-called Coney Island, where the people go and be married even in the cafes and hotels by the clerks and saloonkeepers and the marriage is legal? The King of England told me that women and men go to Iceland to marry and divorce in a few days."

"While I was the czar's wife I dreamed much of going to America and witnessing the marriages on Coney Island, but my father did not like the idea, fearing I would not return, for I was very adventurous at that time. I thought it would not be very bad to marry the daughter of a multi-millionaire. Forgive me, my dear lady."

The czar went to the czarine, kissing her hands. She smiled and replied lowly: "Perhaps it would be better if you had married a wealthy American lady, so you would not need money so often and she could be your minister of finance."

AMERICAN MONEY KINGS.

"I think my husband will be interested to hear the stories of the money kings of America and how they made their money," continued the czarine.

I told what I knew about Rockefeller, Carnegie and some others.

Then our talk turned more and more to politics. The czar was greatly interested in the talk of trouble between the United States and Japan and he said he would be satisfied with an alliance with the United States against the growing power of Japan. He expressed the opinion that a war between Russia and Japan would be sure to come in the next five years.

"It is not true that I ever opposed the idea of a railroad connecting Siberia through a tunnel under Behring sea with America," continued the czar. "I have ordered a committee to investigate this question and inform me of a result. I would like to see the first train connecting the two largest countries in the world."

"It was not the letter of Roosevelt that induced me to make peace with Japan, but my respect for public opinion of America."

REGRETS CENSURE.

"I am very sorry that in the course of the last massacres of Jews the public opinion of that great country has been turned against me. I am not guilty of all those troubles. I think the Jews themselves incited the mob to attack them. The time will come when the Americans themselves will hate the Jews and regard them not as a nation of great intelligence and isolated from the others through their religion, but as the worst type of business men and money makers. All the revolts during the last two years have been agitated by the Jews. A Jew in common life may be good, but a Jew in politics is worse than anyone else."

"If some of the prominent Americans should request your Majesty to grant some educational and social reforms in your empire, would you grant their request?" I asked the czar.

"I think that no other nation in the whole world impresses me so much as the American, and I would be willing to grant them more than to any other nation," replied the czar, lighting a cigar. Both the czar and czarine were much impressed by the fact that the application in America did not wear any arms and did not pay any attention to the personalities of the population, as is the custom in Russia and all over Europe. They asked me to get a good photograph of a typical American policeman. I promised to do it immediately and the czar said: "I would like to present it to Mr. Stolypin, asking him to mail a copy to every governor and chief of police as an example of how they ought to train the people and the police to respect one another mutually."

After five hours in the palace of the czar, the imperial carriage took me back to the railroad station and when passing the windows of the children's apartments one of the daughters of the czar opened the window and cried:

"Countess, when you again are going to travel in America, you must take me with you. Send my greetings to the gro and Indian girls. Good-bye!"

Inconsistency of Spanish People Is Shown by Pique Over Young Queen Mother

First photograph taken of the Royal Spanish family since the birth of the heir apparent.

MADRID, Oct. 5.—The inconsistency of the Spanish character is very noticeable. For instance, many of those people who were angry with the Queen for not showing sufficient strength of will to carry out her intention of nursing their Prince of the Asturias, are now saying ugly things about her having brought so many English servants into the royal household. They complain that there are now an English butler, a footman, two ladies' maids and two nurses. They also think that Princess Henry made too long a stay with her daughter last winter, and every Monday morning there were malicious little allusions in the morning papers to the regular attendance of the Queen's mother at the Embassy Chapel. Some even hinted ironically that a Protestant place of worship should be fitted up in the royal palace for the exclusive use of Prince Henry and other Protestant relatives of Her Majesty.

DUTIES OF NURSE.
It has always been the custom in Spain, even in the royal palace, for the wet nurses to have complete charge of her nursing until weaned. She is allowed to give milk whenever it cries for it, or even often in order to make it sleep. She dresses the child, but seldom bathes it and puts it into her own bed. The class of people from whom these amas are selected are therefore furious at the way the Prince's wet nurse is treated. They are astonished that the heir to the Spanish throne should be taken out for his abiding in the royal baby carriage, pushed by an English nursemaid in a white frock; the ama, in her becoming provincial dress and beautiful coral necklace and earrings, being by the side.

The boy or lady in charge of the Prince is the Marchioness of Salamanca, and the amiable young Countess del Puerto acts as second lady in charge. The latter's husband holds an important place in the royal household.

PRINCESS ENA HAS CHANGED.
Queen Victoria Eugenie, as her Spanish subjects call England's Princess Ena, has changed in appearance since she has been here. She now looks much more womanly, and often a sad expression clouds her pretty face, which is perhaps not surprising when one remembers the narrow escape she had from the anarchist's bomb on the day of her marriage. She is inclined to stoutness, but Spaniards like matronly women, and consider her all the more beautiful on that account. Apart from the occasional and expression mentioned, she seems to be quite happy, and her young husband is very devoted to her. Nor can she complain of any lack of affection from her royal mother-in-law or the other members of the Spanish royal family.

When seen in public the two queens look very well indeed—the stately Austrian and the young English girl, so Sax-on-like, with her pink and white complexion and golden locks. Both queens are fond of beautiful clothes and dress to perfection. The tasteful half-mourning tints of Queen Christina serve as a soft background for the dainty bright blues and pinks of Queen Victoria Eugenie's attire.

The Queens of Spain have always been famous for their splendid jewelry, and King Alfonso has given his wife, among other things, a superb closed coronet, which she wears on state occasions, but she never looks so beautiful as when wearing the splendid turquoise ornament presented to her on her marriage by King Edward and Queen Alexandra.

CAN MARRY SISTER OF DECEASED WIFE

Complications Arise Over Effect of Law Recently Passed by British Parliament.

(BY LADY HENRY SOMERSET.)

LONDON, Oct. 5.—The passing of the bill dealing with marriage with a deceased wife's sister will have far-reaching results, probably wider than any foreseen by those who take a surface view of the matter. For the first time both houses of Parliament have passed an act in direct contravention of the Church law. For seventy years this matter has been fought, and now at last such marriages have been legalized.

It has been stated that the present marriage law in England is an anomaly, because such marriages are legal in the Channel Islands, which form a part of our country, and in Canada and Australia; but, on the other hand, the Anglican Church is not by law established either in Canada or Australia, consequently the Church is free to take her own view in this matter, and such marriages, through recognized by the State, need not necessarily be recognized by the Church.

But in England the matter is different, the Church and the State have been united, and the State is now asking the Church to make a radical alteration at its bidding, in the canon law. The result, however, is to place the Church and the State at distinct variance.

CHURCH PROTECTS.

The Bishop of London writes that no clergy are called upon to solemnize such marriages, or to lend their churches for the purpose. Many of the laity have, the Bishop says, written to him to ask what they ought to do as to sending away their sisters-in-law who are now bringing up their children, and who are brought by the bill into new relations which make their remaining in the houses of their brothers-in-law difficult and inadvisable. The Bishop replies that the Church protects them, because, as the Church does not recognize such marriages, their position is where it was before, and under this protection they may continue the happy and beneficial arrangement by which they were able to care for their dear sister's children.

AN OLD ISSUE.
The history of the bill is interesting, because it throws some light upon the wider way for women.

manner in which these subjects were dealt with half a century ago. A certain Duke who had wide Conservative influence had contracted an alliance with a deceased wife's sister, and it was of vital importance that the alliance should be made legal. The Chancellor of the day, the great Lord Lyndhurst, was then approached by the man, who was all-powerful in his time, the famous Duke of Wellington, for he was personally interested that this marriage should be placed beyond all legal doubt and beyond all ecclesiastical censure. The Church was shaking its head, and the Oxford movement had already begun. Lord Lyndhurst, however, was unaware of these conditions, and framed a bill legalizing all such unions already contracted or to be contracted; but when this bill was placed before the bishops he found that there was a deep-rooted feeling against it.

DUKE SATISFIED.

"Well, never mind," Lord Lyndhurst is reported to have said. "If they cannot be made good let them be made bad; I care not how it is." Consequently all such marriages were made illegal for the future, thus legalizing those that had been already solemnized. The Duke obtained his wishes and the matter rested for a time, but the agitation has been perennial, and since 1851 almost every year some measure has been introduced and rejected.

Woman in Australia has achieved a victory. The Minister of Public Instruction has at last declared that from the present time girls and women may enter the university on the same conditions as men and may give private lectures in clinical hospitals and be appointed assistants by the professors. Dr. Elise Richter, who is forty years of age, is the first to lecture on Rumanian philology, and is among those whose persistency and talent have won this wider way for women.

KING SPONSOR TO RICH BABE

French Police Oust American

(BY PAULINE LAMBETH.)

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Probably no infant, with the exception of the heir to the Spanish throne, has had so much fuss made about him as the son and heir which was born recently to Mr. and Mrs. Willie James, the King's great friends.

His Majesty has consented to become sponsor to the child and the other day Mrs. James' carriage, containing herself, the nurse and the baby, was unhorsed by her farm tenants and outdoor servants and drawn in triumph through the grounds of West Dean park to the house, where presentation was made to the happy parents.

Constant telegrams asking after the health of the boy pour into West Dean every day from all parts of the country. The infant, which is a very tiny mite and takes after its mother, who is a very little woman, will be one of the richest young men in England.

IS BORN ACTRESS.

Mrs. Willie James, who has two daughters, has waited many years for a son, and her joy knows no bounds. She is a singularly attractive woman with a very dainty French appearance and as "Cinderella" in the famous Chatsworth theatricals given by the Duchess of Devonshire, she contrived to look about fourteen.

She is a born actress and dancer and has never been known to say an unkind thing about another woman. In this respect she resembles an even greater friend of the King—Mrs. George Keppel.

MILLIONAIRES LINGER.

Although several London newspapers have pompously assured us that the American season is over, there are, even at this late period of the year, quite a number of Americans in England who count. Claridge's is still the roof tree of the small army of millionaires who beguile their time by paying flying visits to Scotland for the shooting and to Paris for the fun.

What the American visitor to England particularly appreciates is the freedom from notice he obtains in any of the public places he chooses to visit. It is a refreshing novelty to escape the vigilant reporter who anxiously dogs one's footsteps with the keen desire of chronicling one's every movement.

AMERICAN OUSTED.

Mr. James Winslow, an American millionaire, who for years has been a well-known figure on the continent, has arrived in London filled to the brim with grievances. For a dozen years he has made a point of paying an annual visit to Dinard, France, where he owns a villa and keeps a yacht.

He is extremely popular and his swift motor car has made him known for miles around the country and he has the reputation of being a thoroughly good fellow. This year he omitted to register his address with the police and has had to quit the country at a day's notice. Another lapse, which, so to speak, got the authorities on their hind legs, was the formation of the New Club without first obtaining their permission.

Mr. Winslow and the Countess Hatfield, who was a Miss Moulton of Philadelphia, and who is the sister of the American consul at Dinard, founded the club and everything went on smoothly until the arrival of the police, who removed Mr. Winslow from the committee by exiling him.

The American colonies of Paris and Dinard are extremely wrathful and the embassies of England and France are being kept busy by Mr. Winslow, who is waiting developments with a smile. The American embassy in London is doing its utmost to restore peace and install Mr. Winslow once more in his Dinard villa.

AMERICAN TANGLED IN PARIS SCANDAL

Imprudent Millionaire Must Divorce Wife or Pay Big Sum to French Woman.

(BY MARQUIS DE CASTELLANE.)

PARIS, Oct. 5.—Before returning to Paris I made a tour on the coast of Normandy, where the fashionable world holds its summer assizes in order to find out whether America had played any part in the course of the summer that has just passed.

I noted first of all the arrival of a fresh beauty, namely the wife of Mr. Rutherford Stuyvesant. This charming young lady, in her beautiful villa at Deauville has been the queen of elegance, and her grace, beauty and fortune united have made her a rival of the famous Mme. Letellier, who hitherto reigned supreme. I have no doubt Mrs. Rutherford Stuyvesant will this winter in Paris be as much admired as she was during the summer when she related gossip of interest to Americans, but of somewhat delicate a character.

It seems that a young woman of the demi-monde who is known as "La Panthere," recently made the conquest of a very wealthy American, whose name I shall not divulge, although it is on everybody's lips. For six weeks they traveled together, and so much was the millionaire in love that he is to enjoy the happiness of paternity—I say is to, because the child of the charming Panthere is not born.

The imprudent American is now reduced to this dilemma—either he must get a divorce from his wife and marry the demi-monde, or he must part from the latter at the cost of a very handsome sum of money. People who knew of the affair are betting heavily on the result.

COUNTRESS TO WED.

I have the pleasure of announcing to my readers the approaching marriage of the daughter of Baron Ullon, the wife by a first marriage of Count Poulque de Maille, whom she divorced three years ago.

After the separation this young lady, who occupied a position in Parisian society to which she was entitled, alike by her beauty and her husband's name, retired entirely from fashionable life, and has since lived in the strictest retirement.

She now reappears, not among those who were the companions of her youth in Paris and her rivals in the art of pleasing, but at Madrid, in official circles, where I am pretty sure she will very soon win a place similar and equal to that which she enjoyed in the fashionable world of Paris. Her future husband is General de Rivera, an officer of the Madrid garrison, and she becomes the daughter-in-law of the Governor-General of Girona and the niece of the Spanish Minister of War.

There is at present one slight obstacle to the project—namely, that the marriage of the ex-Countess de Maille has not yet been annulled by the Vatican—but well-informed persons declare that this will shortly take place, and of course the parties chiefly interested are occupying themselves with this matter.

IN 19 YEARS SPEND $200,000 ON GIRL

LONDON, Oct. 5.—While a London mother recently calculated that her daughter up to presentation at court cost her $35,000, an American girl of the same position costs $200,000, Americans declare.

This sum is thus accounted for by a lady who desires to retain her anonymity:

Infancy .....	$ 6,000
From two to eight years .....	24,000
Eight to fourteen years .....	27,000
Fourteen to eighteen years .....	43,000
Eighteenth and nineteenth years .....	100,000
Total .....	$200,000

"I am quite sure," said the lady, "that these figures do not exceed the mark. The girl destined to enter society is a luxury and a speculation from the cradle."

The crowning event in the New York girl's life—the debut—is now made in the twentieth or twenty-first year. It used to be earlier, but mothers have acquired wisdom through experience.

The scene shifts then to Washington, where the debutante meets the President, and if she is a success is entertained at the White House. She next whirls away to Newport, and from Newport she goes to Paris, London and Berlin.

"If she has not already been secured by an American statesman or financier she is soon caught by a diplomat or member of the nobility. With her marriage comes the real outlay, and as proved by the fortune expended recently upon the tressouree of Miss Marion Fish, many of whose gowns cost $100,000 each, while the total cost of her outfit was $250,000."

Stoner Becomes Agent For Maxwell Car

J. A. Stoner, formerly manager of the Standard Motor Car Co., representing the Ford automobiles, has tendered his resignation and secured the agency of the Maxwell for Oakland, Alameda and Berkeley. As proof of his confidence in the Maxwell, he has purchased 250 of the '08 model from Mr. F. J. Linz, manager of Maxwell, Eliseo Pacific Co.

Mr. Linz recently went East and secured the management of the Maxwell, Eliseo Pacific Co., and at once arranged for the removal of the Chicago factory to the Pacific Coast. This may be one of Oakland's enterprises.

60,000 BID FAREWELL TO SPIRIT OF CARNIVAL Fun Leads Parade of 5,000 Maskers

In a confusion of color, the glittering brilliance of a million sparkling lights and with a pandemonium of noises such as would do justice to the wildest revel in the courts of the God of Mirth, the Alameda County Carnival and Exposition at Idora Park was brought to a close at midnight last evening. Today the silent booths held but memories of one of the most successful and enjoyable carnival fetes ever held in this part of the United States. In many parts of the grounds workmen have already commenced the removal of the buildings, while exhibitors are busy carrying away the valuable stores of bric-a-brac, merchandise and the thousand and one odds and ends with which they have graced their stands.

UNRESTRICTED FUN.

True to their word the carnival officials closed the affair with a most bewildering and soul-satisfying spectacle of unrestricted fun and frivolity. Fast and furious waged the war of mirth among the packed thousands; abandonment to the pleasures of the hour was the order of the day; each visitor, old or young, seemed bent upon outdoing and outwitting his nearest neighbor, yet with it all the evening was characterized by an almost total absence of anything of a rowdy or untoward nature. The great crowd confined itself to legitimate entertainment, generously sharing its mite of fun with any and all who cared to join the revel.

60,000 ENTER PARK. It is estimated that more than 60,000 people passed through the gates of the park on the last night of the carnival. The resources and capacity of the traction company were taxed to the limit to provide transportation

Atty. Earl Rogers Comments On Verdict of the Ford Jury

The jury practically stood 11 for not guilty and one—a ringer named Strange—for guilty. Strange tried to get on the jury for the purpose of bringing about a conviction. He purposely answered the qualifying questions untruthfully.

Strange was one of the jurors who convicted Glass. I was "out of position" when he came and could not challenge. We knew within two hours after he was sworn that he was a "plant," and we know now the whole story of how he was got. The word San Jose may be a tip. At one time the vote was nine for acquittal and three for conviction. Two of the nine agreed to vote not guilty if Strange would come also. He refused.

I tried my best to get rid of him, but he stuck. No sooner was he taken than letters, telephones and even telegrams commenced to come, warning us against him. One man immediately came many miles to tell us of a conversation had with this hypocrite, who took oath that he had no opinion, prejudice or bias, in which he said he would get on every jury he could and would convict every man he tried. He sat all through the case with his eyes down and not once would he look the defendant or his counsel in the face. Well, that's the luck of juries. But as soon as the time comes, the people will learn more of this thing.

Driscoll is a saloon-keeper, whose saloon is patronized exclusively by union teamsters and union agitators.

Golder keeps a grocery at Fourteenth and Valencia, patronized altogether by union men, and was opposed to the United Railroads on account of the strike. He has a damage claim against the company.

Johnson keeps a grocery under the district attorney's office; knows the whole force well; is a friend of Langdon; and his brother rents the office to the district attorney. After he was sworn, he was seen coming out of the stairs leading to the district attorney's office.

The world of fair men can judge. If, after one of the most unfair trials in history, eight jurors, the intelligent, responsible business men—men like Gould, Bender, Kelly, Olsen, Mortensen, Marcom, Chase, and Ferguson, all men of affairs and consideration,—vote for acquittal, it appears that the day of terror, the day of the Jacobin club, the guillotine and Madame La Farge, of Robespierre and Heney is over.

Burns, the suborner, the imported vampire, may pursue mephitian tactics and befool the air, but men like these jurors answer him.

He reminds me of a yellow coon prize-fighter I saw fight several times. Every time this yellow fellow got smashed in the face, he lay down and yelled "FOUL." After he had howled foul in every fight for months, one evening some kid in the gallery shouted, "Get up, you dog, you weren't fouled. You just got licked."

I hope the hysteria of San Francisco will now subside. It's a good, old town. It's beginning to get sane again. This French Revolution will soon be over, and then we'll get in and build up the city.

EARL ROGERS.

JUROR STRANGE ALLEGED TO HAVE BEEN CONSTANT ALWAYS FOR CONVICTION

THIS IS THE WAY THE FORD JURY DIVIDED.

For conviction—EDWARD W. STRANGE, jeweler; ARTHUR W. JOHNSON, grocer; GEORGE GOLDER, grocer; FLORENCE DRISCOLL, plumber.

For acquittal—EDWARD W. BENDER, foreman, law-book publisher; NIELS MORTENSEN, contractor; OSCAR FERGUSON, insurance agent; JOHN OLSEN, shipping agent; FREDERICK N. MORCOM, art dealer; CHARLES W. GOULD, manufacturer's agent; DANIEL KELLY, insurance agent; JOHN G. CHASE JR., contractor.

Aftermath of the Big Trial

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The jury in the case of Tirey L. Ford, accused of having bribed former Supervisor Thomas Loneragan in the interests of the United Railroads, has been discharged because of its inability to agree upon a verdict.

At 2:30 o'clock this afternoon Superior Judge Lawlor called upon Edward W. Bender, the foreman of the jury, for a verdict. He said that thirty ballots had been cast, but it was utterly impossible to agree upon a decision.

During the casting of the thirty ballots the fate of the defendant fluctuated. At one time the jurors stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction; at another it is declared it was eleven for acquittal and one for conviction, and that all that prevented Ford's acquittal was Juror Edward Strange, who said that nothing in the world could compel him to vote other than for conviction.

Strange Was Very Steadfast

When the judge dismissed the jury the verdict was eight for acquittal and four for conviction.

The four jurors for conviction were led by Juror Edward W. Strange, whose place of business is at 222 Waller street.

From the various stories that have come out of the jury room Strange insisted upon the conviction of Ford. The defense claims that at one stage two of the jurors who had voted for conviction were willing to vote for acquittal if Strange would do the same. But he would not agree to any such proposition.

At one time there was a blank vote during two ballots, and it is said this vote was cast for the purpose of seeing whether Strange would agree to an acquittal.

On Friday night Detective William J. Burns was quoted as saying that there were three members of the jury for acquittal and that these three members had been properly attended to by the defense.

The result of the jury's deliberations when Judge Lawlor finally dismissed the body was as much of a surprise to Burns as to anybody else.

Details of the Jury's Work

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The Tirey L. Ford jury, unable to arrive at a verdict, was discharged at 2:25 o'clock this afternoon.

The evidence submitted at the trial of Ford for bribery was not sufficient to convince eight of the twelve jurors beyond a reasonable doubt that Ford participated in the payment of $4000 to former Supervisor Thomas F. Loneragan to vote the overhead trolley franchise. Consequently, after being locked up for twenty-one hours, the twelve men were permitted by Judge Lawlor to go their ways from the jury box upon the statement of each member in open court

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—H. H. Vreeland, who was retained as manager of the New York City Railway Company by the receivers, Adolph H. Joline and Douglas Robinson, sent the receivers a letter today resigning the place. Vreeland gives press of other business as his reason for resigning. The resignation was accepted.

OFFERED TO ROOT.

While no definite announcement was made today, it is learned that the receivers have offered the management of the surface roads to Oren Root Jr., vice president of the New York City Railway Company, who has been under Vreeland's training for twelve years.

Root said this afternoon that he had just learned of Vreeland's resignation, but would not discuss the matter further. He was in active charge of the management today, however, and there seems to be no doubt that he will accept the post.

CONFESSES TO ROBBING SELF

Paymaster Steals $3600; Then Admits It.

DENVER, Colo., Oct. 5.—After calling out almost the entire detective force of the city by a story that he had been thrown down and robbed of a satchel containing $3600 in currency and bills, James H. Arnold, paymaster of the Northern Coal and Coke Company, confessed this afternoon that he had robbed himself and had concealed the greater part of the money in the show-case of a shoe shining parlor on Seventeenth street.

The confession came after a determined effort on the part of the detectives to get the truth from Arnold. He at first told that as he was proceeding to the depot on his way to pay off the men at the Superior mines, a man attacked him and jostled him into the alley on Seventeenth street, then snatched the satchel from him and ran. Arnold claimed he was panic-stricken and instead of notifying police headquarters or telling the policeman that he passed on the street, he ran straight to the office of the company and made known his loss. Arnold confessed that he hid his Colt's automatic revolver with the satchel and money.

Two School Boys Fight With Tragic Result.

BLUE SPRINGS, Mo., Oct. 5.—James Snodgrass, 14 years of age, and William Shropshire, 13 years old, were returning home from school yesterday afternoon. There were other children along, playing and chasing one another. Suddenly there was a break in the games. Jimmy Snodgrass and William Shropshire were fighting. Carried away by his anger, Jimmy snatched up a stone and threw it with all his might. To escape the missile, Willie turned to run. The stone struck him on the back of the head and he sank unconscious in the dust. The frightened children, finding that their companion did not rise, called help and the injured boy was carried home. He remained unconscious all night and died early this morning. The stone had fractured his skull.

CARNIVAL ENDS WITH JOYFUL FROLICS OF 5,000 MASKERS BEFORE 50,000

to the masses of people pouring in from every direction. Regular schedules were abandoned in despair, the dispatchers receiving orders to distribute the cars as evenly and as quickly as they could. From Alameda and Berkeley came the hosts of funmakers, while it seemed at times that the entire population of Oakland had resolved to see the last night. Each car as it arrived at the park from either direction discharged its great human cargo, scarce any who rode being able to resist the temptation of alighting and participating in the festival.

5000 PARADE.
At an early hour the maskers began to appear in the crowds, each having drawn from the depths of his or her imagination for some weird, unique or fantastic disguise which would render him conspicuous and draw approbation from the on-lookers. By nine o'clock it is estimated that 5000 men, women and children in costume were parading about the grounds. Everywhere sounded their merry laughter as they cut capers in the crowd, while the citizens of sterner mien received a patronage which compelled them to receive the maskers with the same courtesy. The thousands who journeyed around the circle of attraction were carried away by the waves of the sea, and many a poor unfortunate who temporarily absent himself from a party of friends, was waiting away from them in the midst of humanity and spent half of the night regaining his lost position at their side.

PARADE TO GLADWAY.
Chinamen, cowboys, newspaper girls, "coons," French maids, cavaliers, Cossacks, herqueles, cannibals, dog-catchers, chicken thieves, goat herders, pirates, Hindoos, and even Japanese were represented in the throng. At ten o'clock they paraded in platoons through the Gladway and grounds, and never was stranger or more variegated army mobilized in so small a space.

The booths were crowded every minute of the evening with sight-seers, customers and friends of the various institutions they represented. The hospital stands had little trouble in drawing from the willing thousands their dimes and nickels. In the name of sweet charity was all that was necessary to collect a throng of givers; and the various booths the greatest satisfaction was expressed over the results of their endeavors.

The concessionaires on the "Gladway" also experienced one of the greatest financial triumphs of their professional careers. Each attraction, however modest and timidly it put forth its claims, received a patronage which compelled them to receive the maskers with the same courtesy. The thousands who journeyed around the circle of attraction were carried away by the waves of the sea, and many a poor unfortunate who temporarily absent himself from a party of friends, was waiting away from them in the midst of humanity and spent half of the night regaining his lost position at their side.

DEED FOOTPATH TO TOWN OF BERKELEY.
A deed has been recorded in Oakland whereby Beverly L. Hodghead, William Whitney, J. D. Galloway and Almina M. Whitney convey a footpath five feet in width to the town of Berkeley. The deed stipulates that the land shall be used for pedestrian purpose only and it is located between Hawthorne terrace and Euclid avenue in the Wheeler tract.

WANT BETTER SCHOOLS.

WIRE TO ROOSEVELT TO UPHOLD EQUAL SUFFRAGE

WOMEN CLOSE ENTHUSIASTIC CONVENTION

Maintaining that it is the inalienable right of women to vote, the California Equal Suffrage Association closed its annual convention yesterday afternoon in the Bell Club house on Harrison street. The convention was deemed the most enthusiastic one ever held in the history of the State Equal Suffrage Association. Many of the oldest women suffragists in the State were present at sessions which were all well attended.

Mrs. Ellen Sargent, an honorary president of the California Equal Suffrage Association, made a motion to the effect that the State Suffrage Association send a telegram to President Roosevelt asking him to mention woman's suffrage in his message to Congress.

Mrs. Alice Park of Palo Alto seconded the motion, which was passed, and President Mary S. Scoville instructed Mrs. Nellie Scott to write the telegram.

OFFICERS INSTALLED.
The following newly-elected officers were installed by Mrs. Mary S. Sperry, president of the California Equal Suffrage Association: Mrs. Lillian Harris, first vice president; Mrs. Lulu E. Little of Los Angeles, second vice president; Mrs. William Keith, third vice president; Mrs. Alice Park of Palo Alto, secretary; Mrs. Nellie Scott, corresponding secretary; Mrs. Ella S. Mitchell, treasurer; Mrs. Jennie Amott of Palo Alto, and Mrs. A. A. Dennison of Oakland, auditors.

ADOPT RESOLUTIONS.
The following resolutions were adopted: "Resolved, That the California Equal Suffrage Association assembled in annual convention reaffirms the principle enunciated by Abraham Lincoln, who said in 1858, when a candidate for the Illinois Legislature, 'I go for all abating the privileges of the government who assist in bearing its burdens, by no means excluding women.'"

"That when the laws of the country are in accord with this eternal principle of justice this nation will indeed have a new birth of freedom, since then and not until then will there be a government of the people, for the people and by the people."

"That whereas, The wage-earning woman is hampered for better economic conditions by the fact that she has no political power, therefore,

"Be it resolved, That we write of the various trade unions to join the suffrage movement."

GAIN OF SUFFRAGE.
"That we rejoice in the fact that more women have obtained full suffrage in 1906 than during any previous year through the enfranchisement of all the women of Finland. We rejoice also in the extension of municipal suffrage to the women of Natal, and in the generous support given to equal suffrage for Chicago women was disapproved of only through the adverse vote of the chairman.

"That we rejoice in the magnificent endorsement of equal suffrage during the past year by the National Grange, the American Federation of Labor, five political parties in this State and other large organizations representing hundreds of thousands of voters, also in the fact that many influential periodicals formerly opposed have lately declared in favor of equal suffrage."

"That in view of the fact that in only fourteen of our forty-five States have mothers any legal right to the custody and control of their minor children, we urge the women of the other thirty-one States to work for the enactment of laws giving to mothers equal rights with fathers in the custody, control and earnings of their minor children."

TRAFFIC IN WOMEN.
"That the traffic in women and girls which is carried on, both in the United States and other countries, is a heinous blot upon civilization, and that we demand of Congress and of our State Legislature that every possible step be taken to suppress the infamous traffic in this country."

WANT BETTER SCHOOLS.
"That we urge upon Congress and State Legislatures the enactment of laws prohibiting the employment of children under 16 years of age in mines and factories."

STUDENTS DEBATE.
An interesting debate in charge of Mrs. William Keith was given by University of California students, who chose for their subject, "Resolved, That women should have the same political liberty that men now enjoy." The debate was opened by Sayre Macdonell, for the affirmative, which side was also upheld by Eustice M. Polzotto. The negative side of the argument was introduced by Jesse M. Robinson, and Maurice E. Harrison, who maintained that the highest duty of women was the work of rearing a new generation. No decision was made in the debate. Mrs. Keith announced that 1911 would decide what side should be given the honors.

25 CENT MEALS FOR 'LUDSHIPS'

Democratic Invasion Shocks
Staid Members of House of Lords

LONDON, Oct. 5.—Democracy has invaded the House of Lords in the shape of straw hats and pipes. Until this session which has been prolonged throughout the vacation season, no peer dreamed of attending the Chamber dressed otherwise than in the regulation silk suit and frock coat.

The peer who was first daring enough to defy solemn tradition in the matter of dress was the Earl of Mayo, who is now an upstart commercial peer, but the representative of an ancient Irish family. Lord Mayo did not go so far as to wear the straw hat within the House itself, but hung it up in the lobby.

WEARS TWEEDS.
His lordship, however, sat in a tweed suit among the other peers in their black frock coats and the bishops in their lawn sleeves. He was kept in countenance by Lord St. Aldwyn, formerly Sir Michael Hicks-Beach, who wore a light gray summer suit.

It was Lord Lyveden, who has been an actor and a ship's purser, who deeply offended some of the more aristocratic peers by smoking a pipe and strong tobacco within the precincts of Parliament. The Duke of Rutland, who voted the dissent of his lordships, asking Lord Lyveden in a pained voice whether it was "in order" to smoke a pipe in the House of Lords.

The cheap meals at 25 cents introduced by Labor members into the menu of the House of Commons restaurant have now been adopted in the House of Lords, showing the rapid progress democracy is making even in the exclusive circles of the hereditary legislators.

FORD JURORS RETICENT ABOUT CASE

Jurors Say Ruef Should Have Been Called to Testify

EDWARD W. BENDER, foreman of the jury, discussing the case said:

"We took considerably more than thirty ballots, though I don't recall the exact figures. There was no material variation in the balloting from the start. I voted as I judged I should vote from the evidence, but I refuse to state for publication which way it was. There was no possibility of an agreement, and that is why I recommended a discharge when the Judge asked for my opinion."

JOHN G. CHASE, JR., waxed indignant when asked for his statement. "There is nothing to say. My vote was cast in the privacy of the juryroom and is my own. Whatever may be said in regard to the way I voted has nothing to do with me. I have nothing to say and do not care to discuss the jury proceedings."

GEORGE GOLDER said: "The jury split on the matter of Abe Ruef not being put on the stand. The prosecution had given the impression all along that they would put Ruef on, and when they failed to do so a great many of the jurymen thought they had not made out their case. Insofar as discussing my individual vote or that of the others, I cannot do that as we all agreed not to discuss the matter after we left the juryroom.

CHARLES W. GOULD said: "I do not care to discuss my vote or the finding of the jury. The disagreement is a matter of record. What happened in the juryroom is private."

ARTHUR W. JOHNSON, one of those given with the four for conviction, said: "I gave my word in the juryroom that I would not discuss this matter. I cannot go behind that."

F. W. MORCOM said: "It was eight for acquittal and four for conviction. That is all of the affair I will give out."

E. W. STRANGE said: "I don't care to discuss the case. Mr. Bender will tell you all there is to say."

DANIEL KELLY was equally reticent. "This matter is not one for public discussion. The juryroom vote is a juryroom secret. I do not care to discuss my vote or the reason I voted as I did."

NEILS MORTENSEN, who voted for acquittal and who was also a member of the jury that found Louis Glass guilty of bribery, was averse to discussing the finding. "There is nothing to be said. The jury heard the evidence and returned their verdict, which is a matter of record. I do not care to discuss the matter further."

LANGDON PLANS TO TRY FORD AGAIN AT ONCE

District Attorney William H. Langdon has no comment to make on the findings of the jury. He said that he does not admit it. He said that Ford would at once be brought to trial again. "Ford will be brought to trial at the earliest convenience. I don't know yet what charge he will be tried upon, but that can be readily settled. Further than that I do not care to make any statements."

William J. Burns was equally terse. "I have nothing to say as to the result of the trial. We will keep on and I am satisfied that eventually there will be a conviction."

Stanley Moore and Father Surprised

"We were both surprised and disappointed at the disagreement of the jury. We had expected, as the evidence entitled us to do, nothing but an acquittal. The vote of the majority of the jury, however, indicates which way the trial cases will finally end."

"STANLEY MOORE."

Failure to Put Ruef on the Stand Fatal Defect and Weakened Case, Says Juror

(BY JUROR JOHN OLSEN.)

If the prosecution had put Ruef on the stand Ford could have been convicted. But the prosecution fell down badly. After playing with rare brilliancy up to the climax, it suddenly became childish. Just as the jury was expecting Ruef to be called, the state's case was closed. The jury was not far out to sea and left the courtroom without a word.

It was proved that the money passed between Galligan, Longworth and Ruef, but Ford's conviction was not shown. Every member of the jury was satisfied that the United Railroads bribed the supervisors. But the state's case depended on Ruef's testimony, which would have made a convict of Ford and without it he was in no wise connected with the bribery of the supervisors.

The testimony showed how the money went from Calhoun to Mullally and to the office of the United Railroads. The prosecution tried to make it appear that Ford carried the money out in a big box, but the office boy and the stenographer swore that he always left the office empty-handed. However, that was a deplorable mistake. However, that was a deplorable mistake. However, that was a deplorable mistake.

When the jury retired to the room to deliberate a ballot was taken. It stood eight for acquittal and four for conviction. And it stood that way up to about the sixteenth ballot, when there appeared a blank with the tally seven for acquittal and four for conviction. And on the next ballot the vote was seven for acquittal and five for conviction. That was the last vote taken before we were locked up for the night. The first ballot taken in the morning showed seven for acquittal and five for conviction. But the next vote was eight for acquittal and four for conviction, and so it remained until the last ballot was taken. There were between twenty-five and forty ballots taken in all. The blank ballots and the changed votes were cast by George Golder, but after he heard the arguments of Edward Bender, who led the forces for acquittal, he came over to our side and stayed there.

Edward W. Strange led the force for conviction, and argued at great length. Several times the debates between Bender for us and Strange for conviction were very fine, but the failure to put Ruef on the stand was so great a mistake and made the case so impossible of complete proof that those who were for acquittal could not be changed by Strange's eloquence. I have heard the stories circulated by Detective Burns about bribery and tampering with the jury, but I believe they are all lies. I men, but I believe they are all lies. I heard just as I was leaving the jury room that Arthur W. Johnson had been given $2500 to vote for acquittal. I want to say for every member of the jury that they were honest, conscientious and thoroughly trustworthy and that they weighed the evidence carefully and were influenced by nothing but the testimony presented for their consideration.

ELOPES WITH STENOGRAPHER AND BIG SUM Former San Franciscan Takes Firm's Cash and Marries Girl

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Leaving behind him a cash deficit of at least $5400 and a string of broken hearts on both sides, "Captain" William E. Gunn, manager of a fashionable department house, and Miss Gertrude Fontana, a beautiful brunette stenographer, have eloped.

For several days "Captain" Gunn has been missing from his post of duty at the Schuyler Arms. Ninety-eight street and Riverside drive, and the typewriting machine in the office of the hotel has not known the dainty touch of Miss Fontana's fingers for the same period.

But it was not until today that the company which was the apartment house, discovered that before he vanished Gunn drew from the Colonial bank all the cash the Schuyler Arms had on deposit. Then, too, it developed that Miss Fontana had gone with him, and that they were married on September 23 by the Rev. Henry Marsh War en.

"MARRIED! OH MY!" "Married!" gasped the Schuyler Arms tenants in astonishment. "Why, Captain Gunn told us he had a wife and some babies out in California. He must be a bigamist."

"Gertrude gone!" exclaimed at least three young men about town, who either in the past or at present had hearts full of love for the dark-eyed Miss Fontana. Two of them—Dr. William M. Wood and Lester Flinty Dwight—fought a duel over her in October, 1905, at their apartment. Dwight was nearly killed by his opponent. The third young man was Joseph O'Reilly, a brother of O'Reilly, the lawyer. Young Joseph, until the day the wedding occurred, firmly believed he was engaged to marry Gertrude himself. Now they are all disappointed. And the sentiment of the disappointed ones is even more poignant. Gunn apparently took $5400 cash, but in addition to that the bills supposed to have been paid have been turning up every day, and the apartment owners have no idea where they stand.

INTERIOR OF ST. JOHN'S CHURCH DAMAGED BY FIRE

Fire was discovered in St. John's Episcopal church, corner of Eighth avenue and Grove streets, at midnight last night and before it could be extinguished a damage amounting to about $2000 had been caused.

The origin of the blaze is a mystery, and it had gained considerable headway before being discovered. The damage was confined principally to interior furnishings.

BURGLAR RANSACKS HOME OF S. F. POLICE CAPTAIN

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Down at the Hall of Justice is a criminal report that the police are trying their best to conceal. It tells of how the home of Captain of Police Marcellus O. Anderson was robbed of diamonds and furs valued at $1000, and in broad daylight.

The burglary was made in through the front door. Every movable thing in the house was either upset or rifled.

QUICK WORK. The burglar did all this within a few minutes, but the Anderson family had to work a whole day in straightening things out again and in learning what had been stolen by counting what remained.

The inventory showed that seal skin sack worth $300 was missing. This and jewelry, such as diamond rings, pins and ornaments of other sorts and some silver plate that would easily stand the acid test that is used by discriminating thieves.

All the detectives and all the pawnbrokers were working overtime to get all the valuables back again.

SEVEN KILLED BY A TRAIN

Big Flyer Ground Victims to Pieces in Its Mad Rush

CHICAGO, Oct. 5.—Without the sound of a bell or warning shriek of a whistle, a great mogul engine, drawing a train of sleepers in its wake, swept like a comet out of the darkness through Gary, Indiana, tonight and plowed a murderous path through a struggling crowd of men and women on the tracks.

Seven men and women were ground to pieces under the wheels of the flying train, which continued on its way at a speed of fifty miles an hour, leaving only blackness, pitiful cries and shuddering, cowering men and women behind. The real number of the dead is not known. The bits of bodies picked up along the track for a hundred yards by the aid of the dim light of lanterns are believed to represent seven persons killed, but others may have been carried on farther by the train and cast into ditches or sandy fields, where they will be found later.

SIX PEOPLE HURT

The accident is unknown. None of the street car men were able to explain the accident.

Mrs. Brasher, one of the injured, says she was riding on the rear platform and saw the oncoming car, but there was no time to escape. She was thrown from the car to the ground and lost consciousness. She did not know how the accident happened.

Two Haxey boys were standing on the rear end of the Hayward car and were so jammed in by the crowd that they could not save themselves. Their mother was sent for, but when she arrived at the hospital the boys were under an anesthetic. They are expected to live.

Miss Ella DeVoe, of West Berkeley, was a witness of the accident. She stated that she had just signaled the car to stop and was getting on the front end when she was thrown to the ground by the impact.

No arrests have been made as yet.

Geo. C. Jones, a "spies" for one of the attractions on the Gladway at the carnival was arrested last night upon the complaint of a former employer, the manager of the Los Angeles Soap Company. The manager alleges that Jones collected money belonging to the firm and absconded.

Sentencing of Ruef Is Twelve Times Postponed

The failure of the prosecution to put Ruef on the stand appears to have been the reason eight jurors voted for acquittal in the Ford case. Ruef has not yet been sentenced by Judge Dunne although he pleaded guilty as far back as May 15.

ACID ON LONGWORTH'S ONE-TIME FIANCEE A MYSTERY Sleuths Baffled and Society Speculates

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—A story, almost beyond credence, of a mystery, apparently beyond solution, whose central figure is a former fiancée of President Roosevelt's son-in-law, Congressman Nicholas Longworth, has come to light through these two widely separated happenings.

In this city a private detective agency, after six months of tireless investigation, gave up "a certain case" as hopeless.

In Cincinnati, Miss Miriam Frances Bloomer, predecessor to Alice Roosevelt in Mr. Longworth's affections, arrived at her home after six months "in the country."

Briefly, the story back of those two events is this: Miss Bloomer has been convalescing from a horrible burning of her face and body by some unknown powerful acid the detectives have been striving to learn just how, when, why and where the burning occurred.

PUZZLE MAY REMAIN UNSOLVED. The girl has recovered and only her closest relatives know why she was attacked by the acid.

A few slight scars are the sole traces of her frightful experience. Therefore the mystery probably never will be solved. But if ever an enigma deserved the study of a Holmes or a Lerocq this is it.

Various members of the Bloomer family have denied the whole story. Miss Miriam was never burned, they have declared, and there was no Madison avenue mystery at all. They didn't know where the story came from, they vowed.

But here is the complete narrative of circumstances, as told by one who was intimately associated with the Bloomer family at the time.

Miss Miriam Frances Bloomer is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. J. B. Bloomer, of Cincinnati, who are wealthy and prominent socially. Miss Miriam is about 30 years old, talented and a favorite in social and club circles. Several years ago she was engaged to Congressman Nicholas Longworth. At the Longworth-Roosevelt wedding she was brought into prominence by a discussion as to whether or not she would attend. She did attend, and wished the young couple well.

OFTEN VISITED BROTHER HERE. Her brother, Ralph Bloomer, is the former star halfback of several Yale football teams. He has maintained for more than a year, an elaborate suite of apartments at No. 25 Madison Square, a house which holds several families society elite in the city.

Mr. Bloomer is connected with one of the best known brokerage houses in Wall street.

One night in April last between 10:30 and 11 o'clock Ralph returned home from an evening call and, according to his cousin, knocked upon the door of his sister's apartment to bid her goodnight.

There was no answer to his signal. He opened the door, looked in and saw Miss Miriam lying peacefully asleep. Then he returned to his own room and sat down to read for awhile before going to bed.

But early in the morning a commotion awakened him before his usual hour. His sister's maid knocked at his door. Breathlessly she told him something terrible had happened. She was in agony. She could not speak, though she seemed conscious.

DOCTORS ARE PUZZLED. The young athlete hurried to a telephone and called up one of the most prominent surgeons in the city. When the physician arrived and made an examination he found great white splashes on Miss Bloomer's right hand, right side and left side.

The marks were altogether different from usual acid burns and the doctors did not know what the burning was caused by. The surgeons applied the most powerful antidotes and lemons, but did not learn the nature of the fluid that had caused the injuries.

Equal mystery lay behind the girl's condition. She was apparently in a state of coma; yet it was not the usual type of coma. It was more like a hypnotic sleep. Several experts who saw her later. One went to the extent of declaring that she was in a state of coma, but he could not say. Anyway, she had been burned, nothing of the kind of the tragedy, even now.

1000 IRISH GIRLS LAND IN AMERICA, EAGER TO MARRY

Colleens Want Only Very Good Husbands

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—One thousand and two pretty Irish girls have come to America.

They are tired of being Irish maids and hope to become American matrons.

They came on the White Star liner Baltic and are young, middle-aged or elderly men who have money, a "steady job," a mild temper or good habits and wants a wife stands a good show.

That's what the girls said. They do not intend to remain in New York—not all of them—so if the wife-seeker be a resident of Kalamazoo or Tucson it need not be classed as a bar to all his hopes.

On Ellis Island several dozen farmers from the West who had journeyed to New York to meet the steamer succeeded in capturing brides and went speeding home with them on fast trains.

C. D. McSweeney, an electrician, of 1679 Park avenue, Manhattan, came to this country years ago. He met Miss Annie Sullivan of County Cork, Ireland, whom he has known for years, and arm and arm went to the home of Mrs. Kate Keen of 273 West One Hundred and Forty-eighth street to get married.

"I have known Miss Sullivan for years, and we have been sweethearts," said McSweeney. "I thought I'd meet her at the boat before any one else could get her."

COME FROM IRISH VILLAGES. The girls all come from little villages and towns in Ireland. There are a few Irish-American girls among them who sailed from this country last spring to visit the exposition at Dublin.

Ernest E. B. Palmer of the big ocean vessel said to the reporters: "The girls aren't bitter to any marriage agency and are not sent over by anybody. They just came by themselves."

"We have plenty of poor men over in our own country, and didn't I turn up my nose to Patrick Healy?" she said. "I am going to Pittsburgh, where all the millionaires live, and try and catch one of them."

Miss Clara Johnson, one of them, is a just 16, from Galway. She has large blue eyes and a wealth of thick, light hair. She had this to say: "I would like to get married to an honest actor, who will teach me how to become an actress like Lillian Russell. I think I will take a trip to Chicago, because I have been informed that all the actors in New York are married."

Miss Nora O'Brien of Limerick said she was going to North Dakota to marry a rich farmer with whom she has been corresponding for several years.

Susan Thompson of Ross, Co., County Tipperary, said: "I would like to get married to a widower with three or four children, because widowers have more sense than single men. There was one widower in Ross Co. who wanted me to become his wife, but I declined his offer because he had a long, red beard. I want men only who are clean shaven."

Miss Mary Delaney, County Roscommon, seems to be well acquainted with some of the facts leading up to the killing of Stanford White by Harry K. Thaw. One of the first things she asked was, "Is Harry Thaw still locked up in prison?"

"I am ready to accept an offer of marriage from any man who doesn't drink. If he is a temperance man why, he can have me for a wife," she said.

Wireless Used in Capturing Thief

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Wireless (telegraph) as aid in criminal investigation was employed Saturday by Hamilton Fish, Assistant United States Treasurer, to find Anna Street, charged with grand larceny, on board the steamship Baltic, on the high seas after she eluded a score of detectives at the pier in this city.

Mr. Fish lodged a complaint against the woman with Assistant District Attorney Krotel. When the Baltic touches shore on the other side of the ocean Scotland Yard will be notified.

The girl became the maid, some time ago, of the daughter of Mr. Fish, and departed hurriedly with three trunks.

B. T. Washington's Son Leaves Academy

EXETER, (N. H.) October 5.—Booker T. Washington, Jr., son of the noted negro educator, suddenly withdrew from the Phillips Academy, which he had entered on September 11, and has left the village. It is said that he was aggrieved because he felt he was being discriminated against on account of his color.

J. E. Gomez, a Cuban who had been Washington's room-mate, left at the same time, and it is said for the same reason.

FORD JURY WAS HUNG BY ONE MAN

of his conviction that no other finding than a disagreement was possible. Upwards of thirty ballots had been taken.

With the dismissal of the jury Ford walked from the room freed of the surveillance of the Sheriff. He was made the recipient of many felicitations. Save his brother-in-law, Fred Boeckmann, none of the members of his family was in court when the disagreement was announced. Whatever the motives of Francis J. Heney and the prosecution may have been in not permitting Abe Ruef to take the stand in the case, the failure to submit their star witness to examination and cross-examination was the rock upon which the jury split. That much jurymen George Golder, one of the four who voted for conviction, has admitted. "While I am not at liberty to state which way I voted, or any other member of the jury, I will say that it was the failure of Ruef to take the stand that created the division."

Streets Filled With Idlers

From 9 o'clock in the morning until the filing of the jury into the box in the middle of the afternoon the streets before and beside the Temple Sherith Israel were thronged with curious idlers. Here and there were women patiently waiting for the result. Two in the final jam, forced their way into the courtroom.

All of the principals were on hand early, Patrick Calhoun being among the first to arrive. Closely following him was the defendant, T. L. Ford, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Jack Holland. Ford was carefully groomed and more at his ease than on the preceding day. He carried a slender cane, which he twirled occasionally, and held his inevitable unlit cigar in his hand.

"I confidently expected by this morning," he announced smilingly, "that the jury would have had me acquitted."

As the morning wore on, rumors of an ironclad disagreement became more and more persistent, and Ford's spirits rose appreciably as the prospects of a discharge became brighter.

The tedium of the tiresome morning was broken when Judge Lawlor ordered all of the principals into the court room at 11:30 o'clock to hear a report from the jury by Bailiff Ryan. Ryan bore a message from Foreman Bender, informing the court that thirty ballots had been taken showing a result, practically without variation, or eight to four for acquittal. Judge Lawlor asked the pleasure of the prosecution and defense in regard to ordering the jury to court and dismissing them. Both sides deferred to him. The jurist then fixed 2:30 o'clock as the time to summon the jury to court, interrogate them on their attitude and dismiss them if it was found that an agreement was impossible.

Court Room Quickly Packed

Long before the courtroom doors were opened, the throng before the temple had increased to a mob. With the opening of court they crowded into the small area of Judge Dunne's courtroom and occupied every available inch of standing or sitting room. Around the edges, in the aisles and at the rear they stood on chairs to get a better view of the proceedings.

Represented by two delegates, the inevitable feminine contingent was there.

The verdict finding a disagreement was heard by no such meagre audience as listened to a jury in the same courtroom, from the same jurybox, with two of the same jurymen represented, finding Louis Glass, in twenty-two minutes, guilty of bribing the same Supervisor in the telephone bribery.

Stanley Moore, of counsel for Ford, was the first of the defense's legal array to arrive. Ford, in charge of Deputy Sheriff Jack Holland, entered through the press, and took a seat beside him. Thorne Mullally next appeared. Patrick Calhoun was not present. District Attorney Langdon and Assistant Attorney John O'Gara forced their way to the front, while Tom Gibson, the new chief of the United Railroads' detective bureau, took a prominent position facing the audience. Near Gibson sat Oliver, Burns' right-hand man. Francis J. Heney was not in court.

The scene was fairly smothered by plain clothes men, retainers of the contesting parties.

A. A. Moore, with Alexander King, of Ford's counsel, accompanied by William M. Abbott, was the last of the principals to appear. Thorne Mullally created a momentary diversion by forcing his way through the jam to the door, responding to a messenger. He was watched curiously as he made his way out and back.

Then Bailiff Ryan appeared, followed by the twelve jurymen, who trooped to their places. Judge Lawlor appeared from his chambers and briskly ascended to the bench. The roll was ordered, and each of the twelve men responded quickly to his name.

Judge Questions the Jury

Judge Lawlor asked the formal question if the jury had arrived upon a verdict. Foreman Bender arose and replied that they had not.

"Upon what are you divided?"

"Upon questions of fact, your honor."

"Would it serve any end if portions of the testimony were read?" Bender replied that he did not think so. He was asked if there had been any change in the ballot from that taken before lunch.

Bender replied that there had not been any change.

The jury was then ordered polled in response to a question from Judge Lawlor as to whether longer deliberation would aid in arriving at a verdict. Each man replied "No." Juror Driscoll created a momentary diversion by replying "Yes." He had misunderstood the question, however, and quickly changed his reply when it was explained to him.

Asked more specifically as to the jury's frame of mind in relation to the evidence, Foreman Bender clinched the matter by stating:

"The jurymen understand the evidence, and they have given it consistent and painstaking deliberation. There is nothing they need enlightenment upon. They are simply divided as to the facts."

Judge Lawlor asked for expressions from the counsel.

For the people Assistant District Attorney O'Gara announced no objection to the jury being dismissed. Attorney A. A. Moore, for Ford, was equally agreeable to the dismissal.

After citing the code provisions covering the matter, Judge Lawlor then formally dismissed the jury.

A discussion then arose as to the commencement of the second trial of Ford, which O'Gara announced would be put on at once. Owing to the fact that the jury panel for the department has been exhausted, a continuance will be granted for a week, when Ford's second trial comes up on Monday. During the week a new jury panel will be returned before Judge Lawlor, from which the talesmen for the second trial will be drawn.

The cases against Calhoun, Mullally and Abbott in connection with the trolley bribery, all of which are set for trial on Monday, will also be continued.

Ford was freed from custody and will appear in court on Monday morning at 10 o'clock to furnish new bail. Judge Lawlor stated that in consideration of the difficulty of securing bail on Saturday, he would permit Ford to go, the bail in the other indictments being ample to hold him.

The courtroom was then cleared, while Ford received congratulations from his friends.

Marquis' Daughter Is Still Missing

NEW YORK Oct 5—More light was thrown upon the reported elopement of Miss Helen Maloney, the daughter of the Marquis Maloney, with Samuel Marquis, the young Englishman, by the reported arrival of a delayed letter sent by the young lady to her father immediately after her marriage. In this letter Miss Maloney told her father that she and young Marquis had been married, but that the ceremony had been performed by a Catholic priest, and is in strict conformity with the customs of the Catholic Church. She also stated that she did not care for the pomp and circumstance of the wedding of the Catholic Church, but that she was very happy and contented. The letter was dated Oct. 4, and was received by the Marquis at his home in New York.

Pettibone and Moyer May Be Given Liberty

CLARENCE DARROW, FAMOUS LAWYER, WHO IS SEVERELY ILL FROM SECOND OPERATION

BOISE Idaho Oct 5—A second operation was performed on Clarence Darrow this morning and his condition is considered serious. No one is admitted to his room at the St. Alphonsus Hospital except his physician and nurse. Darrow is suffering from an abscess in his left ear. He was operated upon last Tuesday but relief was not secured and last night it was decided that he would have to undergo another operation. The attending physician is of the opinion that Darrow will entirely recover but there is no chance that he will be able to appear in court on October 15 the date fixed for the opening of the Pettibone trial. Pettibone is also a very sick man and wholly unable to stand the strain of a long trial.

TO HOLD CONFERENCE
Attorneys for the State will have a conference in the next day or two and there is a strong indication that either Pettibone will be admitted to bail or the cases against him and Moyer dismissed. If the latter course is pursued it will be because of representations of Pettibone's physician that he will never recover from his illness.

MARCONI WIRELESS SYSTEM ON EXHIBITION IN OAKLAND

MARCONI WIRELESS STATION

Signor Marconi has arrived at Glace Bay C. B. to make preparations for the establishment of a transatlantic wireless communication between this continent and Europe and made the following announcement: We have finally overcome all obstacles and in about three weeks will commence a commercial transatlantic wireless service. Marconi will stay at Glace Bay until wireless communication with Europe is on a commercial basis. He explained that an interval of about three weeks would be occupied by preliminary testing. When that had been disposed of the inventor said, the transatlantic service would be thrown open for regular business.

MESSAGES TO TWO KINGDOMS.
Marconi said that cables had already been sent to the Kings of England and Italy, that about a dozen men were employed at the plant including three operators that without trying for speed the average rate of sending and receiving was twenty words per minute. Both the Canadian Pacific and Western Union Telegraph companies have their land lines connected with the station, Marconi said. Marconi added that bad weather would not affect the service provided the masts and poles used in the wireless system remained undamaged. The rate would be ten cents a word for ordinary commercial messages and five cents a word for press dispatches. This rate, he said, would be cut in two later.

SURE OF SUCCESS.
"I shall make no show about it," he said, "but go along quietly. We have surmounted all difficulties, and we are sure of success."

The messages sent from the station at Glace Bay will be received on the other side of the Atlantic at Clifden, Ireland, where Marconi said a new plant had been established fitted out with the latest machinery, much more powerful than that of the older station at Poldhu, Cornwall. The Cornwall station, however, will be utilized as a secondary plant. Marconi stated that the Government lines in Great Britain would handle the messages for land transmission as the Marconi Company had a contract with the British Government to collect and distribute all its dispatches.

GROWTH OF SYSTEM.
Marconi pointed out the marvelous progress being made by the Marconi system. Starting with the parent company, organized in England a bare six years ago a system has been built up which will soon afford any ship at sea the means of communicating with land at any point on her course.

The organizing of the American Canadian French and Belgian companies has been followed by the forming of a company for the Argentine Republic and another will shortly be established in Brazil. The Italian government controls the system in Italy but is working in harmony with all the other companies. The Marconi stations which are being established in Siberia, China and other far eastern points will soon develop business warranting the organizing of companies to directly care for that section. The system will also be found in the near future on the Pacific Coast.

TO EXPLAIN WIRELESS.
An opportunity will be given the citizens of Oakland of seeing the actual workings of the instruments now being used by the Marconi company throughout the world and having them explained in detail. They will be in charge of a competent engineer who will also explain the various uses to which the system may be applied.

H. G. Robinson is now installing a set of Marconi instruments at Maple Hall, Fourteenth and Webster streets where he will give free lectures and demonstrations very evening and have the instruments on exhibition during the day from 9:30 a. m. to 5 p. m. Robinson issues a cordial invitation to everyone to come and see the working of the system.

Death Reunites Loving Brother and Sister

The many friends of John O. Twiss will regret to hear of his death which occurred July 1st, 1907 at Colton, Cal., hardly a year after the death of his little sister, Gladys. Twiss came as a great blow to all as he was in the first flush of strong and promising manhood. He was born in Reno, Nevada, October 18, 1887 and was the son of the late Hon. J. O. Twiss of Carson, Nev. and Kate O. Twiss. John and Gladys were very near the same age and both very kind during their long illness was beautiful to all to see. Much sympathy for the bereaved mother and father. Her two greatest treasures almost at the same time. Her greatest comfort in life was the thought of both her children. The death of the little sister was a great blow to the mother and father. The death of the little sister was a great blow to the mother and father. The death of the little sister was a great blow to the mother and father.

The following poem has been written by a friend of the family:

Here in God's garden where we grow
A few intense and charming flowers
Among so many thorns I know
The little children are the flowers
And though I feel their loss is hard
To live without their presence here
The love that God has placed in our hearts
Is the best that guides us here and there

So though our hearts are full of pain
We will not let our hearts be sad
For we know that in God's hand
They are all safe and glad
We will not let our hearts be sad
For we know that in God's hand
They are all safe and glad
We will not let our hearts be sad
For we know that in God's hand
They are all safe and glad

Rubber Sails and What They Did to the Old Captain Once

JACK WISNAR.

"There was once in my experience at sea when I was wrecked and that time it was caused by rubber sails," said the old skipper as he shifted to a more comfortable position on the coil of rope. "This happened many years ago when I was in command of the full-rigged ship Sadie B. She was a beautiful craft and it made me feel bad to lose her. It happened on the return voyage from Bombay for Shikis."

"In Bombay we had taken a load of India rubber. You know, of course, that all India rubber comes from India. Well, we had a fair passage until we reached Cape Lampong. Then after gale came upon us and suit after suit of sails were blown out of the bolt ropes. At last there wasn't a stitch of canvas left on the ship and there was danger of drifting ashore. I ordered the sailmaker to make some sails out of India rubber and had the crew bend them on. For the first few days they went nicely. There was a calm for a few days, so I rigged up a windmill on the stern of the ship and kept the crew turning it to make wind. This sent the ship along at a 10-knot clip. But the next day it started to blow. The gale came up so suddenly that there wasn't a chance to take in sail. We expected to see the sail go out of the bolt ropes, but instead they started to stretch! The fores'l stretched and stretched and the other sails followed suit. They belled out until the ends were lost sight of in the distance ahead. They made great bags which the fierce gale kept far ahead. We afterward found that it had stretched ten miles ahead of us."

"By an ill chance the end of the fores'l, or I should say the loop of it, caught on a great palm tree on the Sumatran coast. Just about that time the wind died down, and of course the rubber started to contract. It pulled the ship through the water at the rate of 30 miles an hour. Before we knew it the black cliffs loomed up ahead of us and we gave ourselves up for lost. But instead of the rubber dashing the ship against the rocks, the contraction was so great that it pulled the ship clear up out of the water and over the earth into a gulley beyond. Of course, when we struck the earth we were pretty badly damaged, but there we were. "Well, sir, it took us a year to dig a canal for the ship so as to get her back into the water again. But we made the voyage in safety after all, and arrived after we had been given up for lost for more than a year."

"I guess that was one of my strangest experiences."

STUDENT SCORED FOR MISSTATING HIS AGE

BERKELEY, Oct. 5.—A special student at the University of California has provoked the wrath of the senior class by telling an alleged falsehood regarding his age, in violation of the honor system. Who the student is, neither the senior class officers nor the University officials will divulge.

By this alleged violation of the honor system the student has also angered the organ of the senior class, and yesterday, without name, the student was played in an editorial calling him an "unqualified pervertor." It appears that the young man was hailed before the committee of credentials at the University when application was made for admission into the University as a special student.

He said he was twenty-one years old, but later it developed that he was under that age. This, the faculty considering a wide breach of honor and the young fellow was recalled before the committee. He admitted, so the students association declares, that he had given the wrong age. He explained that he did so on the advice of an older student. It is said that instances of this sort occur frequently every year, and the student body is wondering whether a new honor system should be established. Recently it was proposed to affix affidavits to the annual examination papers, but this was objected to by the entire student body and the honor system was invoked in its stead. The associated students are seriously thinking of adopting a new honor system that will eliminate the necessity of watchers at examination periods.

MANILA CUSTOM HOUSE CASHIER ARRESTED

SA FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—Passengers arriving on the steamer China from the Philippines report that Manila was thrown into a turmoil by the arrest on August 30th of T. C. Reiser, cashier of the customs house in that city. Reiser, who is 40 years old, unmarried, and a past exalted ruler of the Elks, was charged with being short in his accounts to the extent of $11,500 in gold, or 23,000 pesos.

Reiser has been one of the most popular men in the Philippines capital, and was a leader among his fellows, dressing well and spending his money freely. His salary as cashier of the customs house was $3000 a year, but it is now alleged that this sum was far from enough to carry him along. Reiser went to the islands in 1900 as a volunteer officer, and soon afterward was appointed to a position in the customs house.

Reiser was under suspension by the collector of customs for several weeks before his arrest took place, when the office of cashier was turned over temporarily to Colonel Ham. Reiser furnished bail after his arrest, thus avoiding prison.

WINE CAUSED DIVORCE OF SOCIETY COUPLE

LOS ANGELES, Oct. 5.—Charming Mrs. Ada Otis, known prominently in a social way in Los Angeles, Redondo, Pasadena and Chicago, was the central figure before Judge James of the Superior Court today when she told of her married woes and secured thereby a legal separation from Thomas C. Otis, at one time well-known in real estate circles in Redondo, but at present associated with Colonel Epes Randolph in his railroad business at Tucson, Arizona.

The trouble in the Otis family extended over a considerable period and related principally to money matters. Mrs. Otis accused her husband of desertion and non-support, but back of these were allegations of reckless extravagance and fondness for wines and gambling.

The Otis wedding took place in Arizona, in 1898, and for some time the couple lived in that State before coming to Southern California.

Mr. J. M. Craig, manager of the Pacific Coast branch, is a man of many years experience, and although he is in the business he does not use whisky. While he does not preach prohibition, he is a firm believer in temperance, and holds that whisky, if not to its proper use, is just as necessary an article as any other product.

As a demonstration that Mr. Craig believes in superior products, it may be said that the souvenirs given out at the "Old Forester" booth are not excelled, if equaled, at the Carnival.

Responsibility for Land Frauds.

United States Senator-elect Borah of Idaho, who has just been acquitted of the charge of being implicated in the extensive timber land frauds committed in that State in the interest of an Eastern lumber corporation for which he was attorney, makes a vicious attack on the administration of the stone and timber act by the government. In a recent statement he says:

"The government makes a man swear that he does not take it on speculation, and the department construes this to mean he must not take it with a view of selling it. There is not a man in the Department of the Interior and presumably in the Department of Justice but knows full well that ninety-nine men or women out of a hundred take up these claims with no other view than selling them as soon as they get title. Notwithstanding this knowledge, the government continues to issue final receipts, and thus connives at the doing of that which they afterward seek to visit upon some one as a fraud."

In some respects this is misleading. It was the intent of Congress in the passage of each act providing for the pre-emption and sale of the public lands that the latter should pass exclusively into the hands of bona fide settlers. Safeguards were erected against speculation and monopoly through the placing of strict limitations on the right of either pre-emption or purchase. The exceptions to this rule were those made in the disposition of mineral and desert lands in the public domain, and these were made for obvious reasons.

These safeguards were partially conveyed into the public land subsidies, granted about forty years ago to the railroads of the period in order to assist in their development and the opening up of the unsettled territory in the West and to provide for a military necessity. But even in those subsidies bona fide settlement was conspicuously in evidence as the purpose of Congress, for in most, if not all of the grants it was provided that the land conveyed to the railroad corporations should be sold to bona fide settlers for the government price of $2.50 per acre. The subsidized railroads ceased paying any respect to this provision at a very early period. A system of land grading was soon introduced and a schedule of acreage prices were adopted to conform with the nature of the land as established by the land agents of the various subsidized railroads. There was no governmental interference with the system and it has proceeded unchallenged until very recently. The rapid contraction of the timber lands of the country, however, prompted an investigation of the conditions of the railroad land grants and a host of Michiganders invaded Southern Oregon and located quarter sections in the railroad subsidy belt, tendering in payment therefor the price of $2.50 per acre specified in the Congressional acts of gift. The issue thus made is a matter for judicial settlement later.

The failure of the Government in the past to prosecute the frauds which began to be committed at an early stage in the history of the operation of the timber land acts is no justification for the denunciation by Senator Borah or any one else of the present activity of the Government in their unearthing and in the prosecution of those who conspired to defeat the land laws in order to concentrate large areas of the public domain in personal or corporate ownership. In these conspiracies, the officials of the United States land offices and the Commissioners and Secretaries of the Interior Department became involved, for, without their indifference to what was going on, if not their connivance and co-operation, the consummation of the frauds that have been committed would have been impossible. Some of these dishonest officials have been gathered into the net spread by the government in its pursuit of the land robbers. Senator Borah has endeavored to shift the responsibility for the frauds on the Government and justify the unlawful acts through which the present holders of large areas of public lands have acquired patents. The specious argument which he makes is ingenious, but it fails to remove the criminal intent underlying all of these land transactions—the gobbling up of the public domain through dummy pre-emptors.

The purpose of dummy representation to circumvent the intent of the land laws on the part of land grabbers has been well established for over thirty years. There was originally some effort made to conceal it by transporting the dummies to the ground to be pre-empted in order that they might swear to its character without committing perjury. But in subsequent years the operators grew bolder, as it has been proved in recent land fraud cases that the dummies made affidavit to a statement of facts regarding land on which their vision never rested and of which they were in total ignorance. It is no mitigation of the offense that the Government has been slow to move in these cases. The Government has been, in fact, notoriously slow to move in all cases of fraud in which it was directly concerned. Take, for example, the frauds committed by "the spoliators" in Nome where mineral lands of great value, from which millions of dollars' worth of virgin gold are being extracted annually by persons who have ousted the legal original pre-emptors and through the corruption of officials and courts have retained possession, because only a possessory title exists in these mineral land holdings which no one but the Government has the right to contest. The latter has taken no steps to right the wrongs committed there. When it does wake up and challenge the rights of "the spoliators," in all probability the ground will have been robbed of its wealth and those who have taken it will be ready to relinquish possession, for it will not then be worth making a fight to retain it. In the same way hundreds of thousands of acres of timber lands in the public domain, dishonestly acquired, have been despoiled of their forest growth and the denuded land has been since abandoned to its fate. If the Government is chargeable for any participation in the land frauds committed, it is that of being too dilatory in defending its rights and prosecuting those who have deliberately violated the laws governing them.

The New Tax Levy.

We do not anticipate that any taxpayer will be disposed this year to raise an objection or complaint of any sort against the tax levy established by the Council at the special session held on Thursday night. The rate was fixed at $1.25 for each $100 of the assessed valuation of property. This is three cents lower than the rate of the fiscal year 1906-07, and is proportionately lower than the rate fixed in neighboring cities. It is true that the assessed valuation of property has been materially raised throughout the city, for the current fiscal year, but this increase in the assessment is vastly below the increase which has taken place in the actual market value of land.

Owing to the increase in assessed valuations the revenues derivable from the reduced rate will be, of course, much larger than the city has ever before collected; but the necessities of the municipality are infinitely greater this year than they have been at any previous time in its history. There is, also, a larger bonded indebtedness to be provided for. However there is over double the population to draw upon, and this is daily increasing. A more gratifying situation can scarcely be conceived.

A considerable proportion of the revenue to be raised will be devoted to increasing the efficiency of the several departments to correspond with the city's growth and multiplied wants; the institution of long needed betterments, and the development of permanent public improvements which will add to the comforts of the community and to the advantages of the municipality for residence and business purposes, all of which will advance the value of property. We have entered on a record year of self-improvement; and, with the certainty of an abundant revenue, we have an assurance of the carrying out of the extensive and important plans which have been carefully prepared for that purpose. The city has ceased to live solely for the present. Its larger growth has broadened its ideas, stimulated its courage and aroused higher ambitions. We are building now for the future as well as for the present, and on lines which require posterity to share in the burdens as well as in the benefits.

Some Features of Rebating.

The revelations made during the rebate investigation now being conducted by Interstate Commerce Commissioner Lane are interesting in several particulars. They show that the rebate evil has two parties as well as two sides to it. Shippers strive for rates which give them an advantage over competitors, and only protest when others get rebates to their disadvantage. If every shipper would be content with a square deal and no favors there would be little trouble in the transportation world. The railroads would not grant rebates if shippers did not try to get them. But the rebate system leads to all sorts of abuses from sheer personal favoritism to discrimination against localities and special industries. For instance, a stone quarry in one locality will be compelled to shut down because of discriminating rates being given another quarry two or three hundred miles away. Often these discriminations are not dictated by any business policy but by a desire to benefit some individual who has influence with the rate-making power. It is this sort of thing that most urgently demands remedy. The only way to correct abuses which result in some industries and localities being built up on the ruin of others is to give everybody a square deal—make shippers as well as transportation companies obey the law and quit resorting to unfair and dishonest expedients to get the better of their neighbors and the public.

The elevation to grade of the terminal blocks to First and Oak streets, of Madison and Second streets, and the curbing, sidewalk and macadamizing of the same, which are now nearly finished, completes this class of public improvements in the southwest corner of the Sixth Ward, except in the one block on Fourth street, between Madison and Oak. This block is, therefore, conspicuously lonely and its improvement ought to be taken up at once in order to harmonize street matters in that quarter where the business developments within the past eighteen months have been marvelous.

GERMAN-AMERICANS WILL 'WELD' TWO COUNTRIES

Hearst's Purse Opens for Splendid Event

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—At this afternoon's session of the National German-American Alliance, an organized body representing a million and a half of Germans throughout the United States, President Hexamer announced that he had received the most generous proposition that had ever come to him as president of the organization. It came in the shape of a communication from William Randolph Hearst, submitted by a representative of Hearst, and reads as follows:

SHOULD BROADEN.

"The time has come for the National German-American Alliance to broaden the field of its efforts, to reach a hand back to Germany, that the two countries may unitedly advance along the paths of progress. Therefore, it is suggested to form an International German-American Alliance, with a branch in Berlin, to promote the understanding of German art and German ideals in America; to foster the study of German social and economic conditions, and to promote and develop the most cordial political relations between the two countries."

GENEROUS PROPOSAL.

"It is therefore proposed that this convention authorize the president to appoint a delegation of, say, ten or twelve eminent citizens, having these objects at heart, to go to Germany in 1908, to further this great cause, and William Randolph Hearst pledges himself to co-operate with such a delegation, to assist through his eight newspapers in five cities in bringing its aims to the attention of the government and the people of Germany and the United States.

"And to meet the cost of this proposed movement Mr. Hearst agrees to defray the entire expenses of the delegation, including such public functions as may be decided upon while in Europe."

RECEIVED WITH CHEERS.

The proposition was received with cheers, and when President Hexamer asked for a thunderous approval of the plan, it was given unanimously and with the wildest enthusiasm.

The program includes a brilliant banquet to be given in Berlin, to which the leading dignitaries of the German empire, prominent members of the press and well-known citizens will be invited, as well as such of the delegates of the National German-American Alliance and other visiting Germans as may be present at the time.

WAVES WASH ABOARD; PANIC

Passengers on City of Topeka Hysterical When Steamer Threatens to Capsize.

Passengers and crew of the steamer City of Topeka were thrown into a panic Friday morning when the vessel threatened to turn turtle on the Humboldt bar. Captain Glew was in command of the Topeka, which had on board fifty or more passengers, including many women and children.

PANIC ON BOARD.

The City of Topeka left Eureka for this city on Tuesday, but owing to a rough bar Captain Glew would not risk going to sea at that time. So the steamer put back and remained until Friday morning. The very first swell as it rolled in jarred the Topeka. Before she could remount to the crest of the following wave the sea broke aboard, tons of water invading the state-rooms, and splashing into the dining saloon. Twice did this experience happen to the Topeka, the force of the waves and the weight of water causing her to career in frightful manner.

Women screamed as the waves thundered aboard and the vessel listed. But Captain Glew brought the steamer up into her course, preventing any further trouble, and the City of Topeka proceeded on her way to this city, arriving yesterday.

$60,000 FIRE IN COLUMBUS

Blaze Originates From Gas Heater and Flames Quickly Spread

COLUMBUS, Ohio, Oct. 6.—The Beckley block on Main street near Fourth, occupied by Van Loewer's large furniture store and other firms, burned last night, due to a natural gas blaze in the basement caused by the plug-blowing out of a heater.

Three alarms were turned in and on the last the entire fire department was called out to save adjoining property, principally the Hartman hotel.

At 2 o'clock the fire was still burning. The building loss probably will reach $60,000; Van Loewer & Co. loss, $50,000; J. & E. Dotter, $30,000, and Brand Hardware Company, $25,000.

DECLARE SILENT WAS MURDERED

May Blow Up Felt Lake to Find Shotgun

STANFORD UNIVERSITY, Oct. 5.—That young Chester Silent met death at the hands of a murderer is becoming more and more the accepted theory of the authorities who are working on the case. All the circumstances of the finding of the body of the young student are being built into a theory which points to murder. Sheriff Langford is working on this theory. The local authorities accept it and the student body shares the belief.

The wounds in the young man's head, the finding of his hat under his arm, and other circumstances enshroud the case with ghastly conjectures. In the meantime the authorities will pursue their plan of draining Felt lake, where the body was found, in the hope that the shotgun may be found and the mysterious death of Silent explained.

MAY BLOW UP LAKE.

Sheriff Langford has assumed charge of the investigation, which will proceed very slowly until the water in Felt lake has been drained. Langford is in San Jose today and will not return here until the middle of the week. Whether the dam in the lake will be blown up next week will depend upon how rapidly the water has diminished. Permission for this operation will have to be obtained from Charles G. Lathrop, treasurer of the University, but no difficulty is apprehended from this quarter.

The gun with which Silent was slain is the object of all search just now. Were both barrels fired or just one, and if only one, was it the right or left barrel?

NO CARTRIDGES FOUND.

The boy had no cartridges in his pocket. So all the ammunition in the case was in the gun itself. Of course if both barrels were fired this phase of the examination will come to nothing, but if a cartridge is found in the left barrel, showing the right to be empty, this, according to some of the deputies in Langford's office, will tend to prove the suicide theory. On the other hand, if it is shown that the left barrel was the one fired, this will tend to substantiate the accident theory.

If the gun cannot be found at all the murder theory will mount into the ascendancy.

BELIEVE IT MURDER.

The murder theory is being given greater credence on the campus. Silent's fraternity brothers seem convinced that it was neither suicide nor accident, but that the death was the result of foul play. They point to the fact that his hat was found under his arm, and declare that it never could have gotten there without having been picked there by some one. This, with the evidence of that mysterious telephone message, looks strong for the murder theory, say they.

However, the case is as mysterious as ever, and the outlook for its becoming anything but a mystery is dim, indeed.

Almost the entire local chapter of the Delta Tau Delta fraternity in Los Angeles will attend the funeral of young Silent.

LUSITANIA MAY TURN ON SPEED

LIVERPOOL, Oct. 5.—The Cunarder Lusitania left here tonight on her second voyage to New York with nearly 3,000 passengers, and a picked crew in the engine room.

The general public, as well as shipping men, is most interested in this ship, as there is a widespread belief that the monster greynard of the sea will be freed from her leashes and that a real attempt to escape the record of the flaming American liner, Deutschland, will be made.

MAY PERCEIVE SUBSIDIES.

It is declared that the British Admiralty is looking toward this voyage for evidence of speed power, as the agreement between the government and the Cunard company regarding the subsidy of $500,000 a year now comes in force. This subsidy is to be reduced if the agreed average of speed is not maintained.

GOOD GOVERNMENT LEAGUE BECOMES SELF IMPORTANT

Democrats Are Accepted as Its Sponsor

SAN FRANCISCO, Oct. 5.—The Good Government League is suffering from a severe attack of self-importance. It declines to recognize the fact which everybody else in town accepts as palpable, that the Democratic machine is the sponsor of the fusion ticket and not the league. The league therefore is hatching an elaborate plan to finance the campaign independently of any suggestion from the Democrats except a financial one. As the local Democracy has made a policy of being short on funds for many years the league will probably have to seek its own council for funds.

The league managers are deluding themselves into the belief that the average voter looks upon them as the creators of the non-partisan ticket. A campaign committee comprised of delegates from the various political organizations will therefore be organized to exploit the success of the ticket. The practical politicians look upon this scheme as harmless and will give it the perfunctory aid which is usually granted in such matters.

Delegates will be appointed and will do nothing. The finance committee will be chosen as a matter of course with discretion and the customary hold-up will follow. The league has almost convinced itself that its existence is a political necessity to

ASK CONGRESS TO BUILD CANAL

Deep Water Ways Convention Wants Ditch From Lakes to Gulf

FIND FAREWELL NOTE IN BOTTLE ON BEACH

SAN DIEGO, Oct. 5.—Another bottle mystery of the sea has occurred through the finding of a note in a bottle on the Los Angeles beach near Elwood. The note was signed by Charles Stroble and purports to have been written on board a small boat taken from Catalina Island on the 27th of last March.

ARMSBY'S BALL TEAM TO MEET S. P. OUTFIT

An interesting game will be played this morning at Recreation Park, Alameda, between the Southern Pacific Claim Department ball team and the J. M. Armsby team of San Francisco. Both teams are playing fast ball and a good game is expected.

DEMOCRATS SCORNE BY TOLEDO CANDIDATES

Toledo, Ohio, Oct. 5.—Mayor Whitlock today declined the Democratic nomination for mayor tendered him by the city convention on the ground that the convention failed to endorse the principles of the independent party. All other independent candidates for city office endorsed by the Democrats declined to permit their names to go upon the Democratic ticket.

OLD SUPERIOR JUDGE DIES IN SAN JOSE

SAN JOSE, Oct. 5.—Judge Theodore Elder Jones, for twenty years Superior Judge of Trinity County, was found dead in bed at his home at 978 South Second street this morning. Judge Jones who had been residing in this city since 1903, died at the age of 77 years and leaves a wife and a daughter.

MAY BUY COAL FROM UNITED STATES FIRMS

OTTAWA, Ontario, Oct. 5.—The deputy minister of labor has told the management of Spring Hill, N. S. mines where there is a strike, that unless they can supply coal for the international railway, the Dominion government will be compelled to place an order for sixty thousand tons with United States firms as the fuel is needed for the Inter-Colonial, a government owned railway.

RAT DEPARTMENT IS OPENED IN SAN JOSE

to hold the sympathetic energies of the leaguers until after election day.

EAGAN'S POLITICS.
The political suicide of Tom Eagan has created marked comment and discussion in political circles. As an element of discontent and rebellion within the labor lines Egan undoubtedly possessed some influence. He has been allied with unionist agitators for many years and his political being found its expression there and nowhere else. When he threw himself out of the party, however, he sacrificed every particle of strength he possessed. He carried only his own vote with him and no fears are being expressed that he will do Ryan any good or McCarthy any harm.

The endeavors to induce Ryan to retire from the race have practically ceased. The managers of Dr. Taylor believe now that powerful class votes will be divided by McCarthy and Ryan. If either of these candidates were to retire the other would receive the full strength of the vote which they now share between them. In no event can Dr. Taylor hope to obtain the votes thus at stake, so the conclusion has been reached that it is wisest to permit the Republican and the La-borite to split it thus neutralizing its strength.

SYMPATHY FOR JURISTS.
Police Judges Weller and Cabanas are receiving the commendation of the multitude. Both were firmly convinced that they would receive the Laborite endorsement and both received a shock of bitter disappointment. For a month Judge Weller has been shouling the praises of McCarthy and Cabanas for several months has been a paragon of kindness and consideration to everybody who looked like a delegate to a convention. But the blow has fallen with a thud upon the two distinguished jurists and for a while at least justice will not be tempered with mercy in their courts. Their confidence in convention pledges has been rudely abused. Weller particularly made the discovery that the influence which formerly was so powerful with Schmitt seemed this time to fail to make connections.

There appears to be some hitch in the McCarthy plan to support a labor spellbinder from the East and it is intimated now that the scheme may be abandoned. The time is short for oratory and the Laborites will confine themselves to the personal canvasses that in the past have been found so effective. Taylor will make a series of short addresses more to let himself be seen than to be heard. Ryan intends to make a stump campaign.

The Section of a Thousand Notions

It is all a mistake to refer to our big Notion and Jewelry Department as a "Notion Section." It is in reality a store in itself; very few jewelers carry so handsome a display of brooches, mounted hair combs, belt buckles, necklaces, bracelets, and no store in California carries such a well selected stock of "notions."

AN UP-TO-DATE MILLINERY DISPLAY

Millinery

Satisfied as we are with our Millinery opening of a few weeks ago, we are even more satisfied with its status today.

We have learned a good deal from those who take care of our interests in New York and Paris and the big department—which, as we often say is a store of itself—is better fitted to supply Millinery wants today than at the season's opening.

The new models in Dress Hats which are exact copies of Eastern and European masterpieces are especially worth a visit. In talking about Millinery, prices do not mean much, descriptions as a rule mean less, but we obviate this with a permanent invitation to come as often as you please and whether you want to buy or not.

Dress Hats are priced $7.50, $8.75 and to $60.00

Popular Headwear

This includes the many styles of Walking hats, trimmed hats and ready-to-wear hats generally. Between a dressy walking hat and the so-styled dress hats the line is somewhat obscure.

NEW YORK, Oct. 5.—Well defined rumors were circulated throughout Cleveland and New York simultaneously today announcing that Mrs. Daisy Gordon Hanna, divorced wife of Dan Hanna, is to be married tomorrow to Franklin Pelton.

LAUNCH LEAPS WHALE'S BACK

Captain of Boat Sends Craft Over Leviathan to Prevent Swamping

PACIFIC GROVE, Oct. 5.—Shooting the chutes over a whale's back is the latest feat accomplished by one of the local boats. Captain W. J. Nichols, master of one of the Booth Cannery launches was taking his course across toward the Santa Cruz side to fish when his craft was all but surrounded by a school of eleven whales. They circled closer, one of them, a monster, placing himself full length across the bow of the fishing boat whose captain was putting forth every known effort to steer his way out from their midst. The brown, lubberly back looked smooth and it was even with the surface of the sea. The hair of the men in the boat was lifting their hats high. Would they share Jonah's fate? was the question.

The craft, as if suddenly alive, shot ahead like mad and straight over that broad, brown back it went, landing after a perilous few seconds in safety. The captain realizing that it was a case of shooting over the whale or being swamped by it, the valve of the engine had been thrown wide open and the boat shot at full speed, fortunately to safety.

An extensive program of literary, musical and athletic exercises has been provided. The park will open at 10 a. m. The literary and musical exercises will begin at 1 p. m. sharp, with a march by the combined bands, "Under dem Siegesbaum" by F. von Blom, under the direction of Prof. C. H. The German Consul, Hon. Franz Bopp, will then address his countrymen. Mendelssohn's great creation, "Der frohe Wandersmann" will then be given by the Pacific Saengerbund, after which the literary program will close with a potpourri from the "Prince of Pilsen," by the combined bands.

Political Situation Is Rather Mixed in San Francisco

THE KNAVE

Dan Ryan Has Been Handed a Prize Package

SAN FRANCISCO, October 5.—No plate of canned boarding house hash was ever as mixed as the political situation on this side of the bay. Scarcely a candidate has been named who has not turned all sorts of back somersaults from party to party during the past six years. Democrats have become Republicans, and Republicans Democrats, while all have tried to get aboard the band wagon of the Union Labor party.

Gavin McNab has nominated "Fussy Wussy" Taylor, whom he despises, and has had to swallow Langdon. That dose was the bitterest pill Gavin has ever had to down. In fact, when he decided that it would be impossible for him to prevent the nominations of Taylor and Langdon by the combined Democratic and Good Government League forces, the canny Scot fumed and roared and said that although he had to swallow the dose, he would take it in two portions, meaning thereby that he would not nominate both men on the same evening. But the influences that are behind Langdon and "Fussy Wussy" were so strong that poor Gavin had to take the mess in one pill. It was pretty hard to keep down, but he kept it down and that is why he has been going about with such a wry face ever since.

In speaking to one of his political lieutenants, Gavin said: "Dr. Taylor has a certain element of strength. He is a dodo. The town is full of dodos, and all the dodos will vote for him, all of which shows he has a certain element of strength."

Larry Dolan, who has been looking for a job for years, has been nominated for Sheriff on the Fusion ticket. He ought to run nearly as fast as a horse car.

And for Coroner the Fusionists have submitted our old friend Dr. T. B. W. Leland. For two years the doctor was the official handler of dead ones. Now he wants to get the job all over again, notwithstanding that the people voted him out of office when the Schmitz administration carried the town with a whoop in 1905.

The doctor came into prominence not long ago by being held up. A man was arrested for the crime. The doctor identified him as his assailant, and in consequence the unfortunate was sent to jail for a period of years. Later, it was discovered, the doctor had really been held up by Seimsen and Dabner, the terrible gaspne thugs. So you understand the doctor is not always certain about what he sees.

Godchaux is once again after his old job of Recorder. When I first knew Godchaux, he was secretary of the Board of Health. He made a good enough Recorder in his way, but was beaten by the Labor people at the last election. Godchaux was one of the closest friends of the late John W. Mackay. He could see Mackay when no one else was permitted to communicate with the mining king, and anything that Mackay had was Godchaux's for the asking.

"Laughing" Billy Hynes is out again for the office of Public Administrator, which he filled in pretty good fashion until the Labor Party punched him back into his bank. Hynes is quite a public entertainer, having sung funny songs at wakes and weddings, picnics and fairs for the last fifteen years. Once he tried to become a professional, but the public wouldn't let him.

For City Attorney on the Fusion ticket, we have our old friend Percy V. Long, who for the past two years has been living the quiet life. He, too, was jolted out of the public eye by the Labor people. He is a young man with ideals so high that he cannot reach them.

Charley Weller is one of the Fusion candidates for Police Judge. He was appointed to the bench by former Mayor Schmitz.

"Bill" Stafford, who has been nominated for Supervisor, was a Republican, but is now a Fusionist. Bill is the wit of the Bohemian Club. In the day time he sells coal, and at night tells funny stories while his customers are burning his coal. But, above all, Bill Stafford is an honest man. You could not buy him with all the money I haven't got. A little bit cranky on some things, but as honest as a die. He is one of the few officials in the recent history of San Francisco who had the fortitude to openly declare against the reckless granting of permits for the crooked prize fights that have made San Francisco one of the laughing stocks of the world of sports. I hope he will be elected.

Allan Pollok used to be the buyer for the Palace Hotel. He was a great personal friend of Mayor Schmitz. He is a Republican running for Supervisor on the ticket composed of the fusion of the Democrats and Good Government Leaguers. Pollok just now is in the construction business. At one time he was manager of the Gas Company.

And what a beautiful can of peas Rudolph Spreckels opened when he handed poor Dan Ryan the prize of the year. Ryan was foolish enough to believe all that Spreckels told him, but now he has another view point. A week ago Ryan was being boosted to the skies by the publications controlled by the sugar barrel. At first he believed the nice things heard about himself and thought the time had arrived when he was to be a really great man. He pictured a future with his face in every issue of every paper and two or three times in the Spreckels press. His walk to and from his office was to be a triumphant tour every twenty-four hours. The words of wisdom he might emit he read in large display type. He knew well the reporters specially assigned to gather his views on all subjects of public interest. He was certainly IT. But he has come out of the land of dreams to find himself reviled by the men he helped out of a dirty mess. Nothing is too vile or contemptible to call him now and no adjective is sufficiently bitter to designate his unworth. He is eating Spreckels' pie.

How is it that Francis J. Heney while acting as an assistant District Attorney in this city is allowed to appear in defense of the Bulletin push in Los Angeles. In one city he is a professional prosecutor and in another he is a professional defender. Whoever heard of a District Attorney going from one city to another turning flip flops en route? Ah, my friends, it's a long lane that has no sharp bars!

Something the public would like to know is, why boodlers Coffey and Wilson were indicted by the grand jury for bribery after they refused to testify satisfactorily to the prosecution in the trial of Tiley L. Ford? If they did not testify truly in the Ford case, why were they not indicted for perjury, instead of bribery? Doesn't it smell bad to indict a man on one charge when he is primarily guilty of another? Neither Coffey nor Wilson accepted bribes in the Ford case, so far as any one can learn; still they are indicted for bribery in another matter totally foreign to the Ford trial, because they did not testify as desired in the Ford trial.

Now, isn't it a fact that Wilson and Coffey were simply indicted on the old bribery charges for which they were granted immunity in order to intimidate other witnesses, chiefly Ruef? Now, isn't it likely they were indicted on a foreign charge to compel them to—Ach, Loui, but what's the use! If you try to figure out what these strange people are after, the answer is a headache.

Paul Bancroft is one of the Spreckels nominees for Supervisor. He was on the jury that convicted Schmitz. He was never heard of before in politics, and it is generally understood that he owes his nomination to the fact that he voted to send Schmitz to San Quentin.

A lawyer friend of mine has a different theory, however. He thinks Bancroft was given a nomination to encourage other jurymen with political aspirations to go and do likewise. This reminds me of the conundrum that used to be running around the town after Less Sternberg was sent to Folsom for stuffing the register for my old friend Senator Jerry Mahoney.

"What happens when the Jews and the Irish do politics together?"

"The Irish go to the Senate and the Jews go to jail."
In Schmitz's case "it was the Dutch."

Our criminal trials are showing the influence of vaudeville on the popular taste, combined with lurid melodrama. A claque to aid the prosecution has become quite the thing of late. As in the theaters the claque is expected to applaud at the psychological moment, the psychological moment being indicated at the right time during the closing argument.

The first demonstration in any of the graft trials was when the verdict was rendered in the Schmitz case. The cheering then was led by a body of students at the Hastings Law College, of which Mayor Taylor is dean. They started the hurrah and a number of others joined in. I wonder if that kind of thing is taught at the Hastings Law School.

The men who cheered Heney during the Ford trial were striking carmen and a group of Socialists. Whether premeditated or not the shoutings of approval when Heney hurled his charge at Byington was calculated to overawe the jury. Judge Lawlor made himself look fiercely indignant, but I am told the applauders had his sympathy.

The smash-up of the new $4500 automobile purchased for the use of Chief Biggy illustrates how quickly a begger on horseback will ride to the devil.

Why Biggy should find it necessary to have a big touring car for his private use is a mystery. But there are other public officials riding around in similar style at the public expense.

Biggy's car was purchased with a part of the $10,000 set aside to pay for a new police boat, which was urgently required till Biggy was made Chief of Police. Then Biggy's desire to have a big automobile all to himself became the most urgent of public necessities. Of course, the city will pay the repair bill.

The Western Pacific is getting into politics in every part of the State into which its lines are projected. Evidently Gould intends to try conclusions with Harriman in the political field for his agents are active everywhere stirring up opposition to the Southern Pacific.

At the inception of the Lincoln-Roosevelt League movement the Gould men jumped into it and whooped the thing along. In every gathering of the leaguers will be found a bunch of Western Pacific attorneys and agents. They see to it that Herrin and Harriman get all that's coming to them in the way of hard words and denunciation.

In Sacramento the municipal contest is practically a battle between the Western Pacific and the Southern Pacific. Nominally, the fight is between a ticket put up by the Democrats and another named by the Lincoln-Roosevelt Republicans, but in reality it is a try-out for political supremacy between the old railroad corporation and Gould's new railroad. All the Western Pacific men are on the Lincoln-Roosevelt end, just as they are in Oakland.

In San Francisco the Western Pacific crowd got in and backed Dan Ryan and stood in with him till Spreckels ordered him to the scrap heap.

Then they lined up with Isadore Jacobs' Good Government push and began shouting for Taylor.

Gould's people are dead down on McCarthy because the Gould roads are having trouble with the unions in half a dozen States. A long strike on the Texas lines has just been called off.

Besides, Gould controls the Western Union Telegraph Company, and the Western Union and organized labor are bad friends at present. Naturally, Gould's San Francisco agents have no use for Union Labor candidates.

In order to get control of the Board of Supervisors Gavin McNab put Taylor and Langdon on his ticket, but in his platform he took a smash at the Spreckels-Phelan scheme to get street railway franchises. He also put in a plank queering the Spring Valley job.

The platform declares for municipal ownership of all public utilities. This would suit the Spring Valley jobbers if another plank did not declare that the city must get its water from the Sierrad Nevadas. So the Scotch boss has handed the graft Junta something closely resembling a gold brick.

Heney's sudden change of front regarding the Parkside franchise is ascribed to Rudolph Spreckels. It is said that Spreckels' opposition was dictated by fear that the United Railroads would get control of the Parkside line as soon as it was built.

Spreckels can be counted on to fight anything he suspects the United Railroads of favoring. Indeed, he carries this antagonism to such an extreme that the graft crusade is beginning to take the form of a fight between Spreckels and Pat Calhoun's railway corporation.

Heney assured a delegation of Sunset residents that he would aid in getting the franchise granted. A little while after he told them he was against the franchise and would beat it. Apparently it is knocked out as far as this board is concerned.

The men who begged Heney to assist in getting the franchise have no financial interest in the proposed Parkside road. They are mostly residing in the Sunset District and lot owners along the projected line. It is of vital importance to them that the road should be built, and as nobody save the original Parkside crowd, of which Umben and Green are leaders, would think of building such a line the boosting is for the men under indictment for giving money to Ruef. The road was projected as a real estate speculation, and will not pay for years if run separate from the United Railroads system. Ruef held up the franchise for a long time, and now the reformers are holding it up and trying to put some of the projectors in jail.

Dan Ryan hit out right and left when he announced that he would not be bulldozed into retiring in favor of Taylor. He took a shot at both Spreckels and McNab, and the railroad crowd.

I guess he is sore to find the Western Pacific both standing in with Spreckels and Phelan against him. Only a little while ago Spreckels and the Western Pacific bunch were with him. Now they are over in the other camp. Ryan may know where he is at, but I doubt if he knows where the others are at.

The public is not surprised at the result of the Ford trial—nor grieved. It is astonishing how many solid business men are gratified that Ford was not convicted.

Very few imagined he would be convicted, but still fewer thought he would be acquitted. Two or three men on the jury were counted on to convict, no matter how little testimony there was to justify the verdict. Their names were freely bandied about the streets before the jury retired to deliberate.

The line up in the jury room shows that for once popular anticipation had the thing figured out right. Now, how do you think that came about?

THE KNAVE.

that they could beat Washington the Athletics shut out the Senators by a score of 2 to 0, but it was too late. Thus, it may be said, the Tigers won the pennant through the efforts of their closest rivals. All the fans in Detroit are now wondering just what will happen when the Teddy Bears start operations on the Tigers in the world's series. Speculations based on poor performance would make the Tiger fan nervous, to put it in mild phrase. Still, the luck of baseball is so uncertain that the Detroitans may happen to take the majority of games in the world championship series.

Talking in numbers, Detroit will begin a series of three games with St. Louis tomorrow at a percentage of Philadelphia today has a percentage of .501, and no further chance to the Detroiters.

In the National League the favorite Giants seems to be settled. The Phillies beat them today and the Giants can do now is to finish fourth place.

LILLIAN BURKHARDT, ACTRESS, CONFESSES TO NERVOUSNESS ON STAGE AFTER FOUR YEARS IN A QUIET HOME AS MRS. GEORGE GOLDSMITH

By BETTY MARTIN.

"The result is—"

Miss Burkhardt adjusted the folds of her long silk kimono as she concluded, "that I'm here."

"And what did you think of the house on Monday night?"

"It was a revelation. And so beautiful. It inspired me. That audience was a magnificent sight. It was great to look out from the stage and see those splendidly dressed men and women. And the faces were so pleasing, too. They seemed to represent culture and learning; there weren't any 'low foreheads,'" continued the actress, unconsciously using the vernacular of the stage.

OAKLAND SURPRISES.

"Have you been anywhere about Oakland?" was my next question, given with a view to ascertaining whether a resident of Los Angeles had any curiosity regarding her temporary environment.

"I was on the heights today at Piedmont, I think they call it. And do you know, everything in Oakland surprises me. I had no idea it was such a big city. I was here once before," confessed Miss Burkhardt, naively, "years ago. And I had always regarded Oakland as something—." Two shapely hands, covered with glittering rings circled through the air as if their owner sought for a fitting word—"as a big overgrown village. And when we got to the mole last week and some one said we had to take the train to reach Oakland, I said, 'Why, I thought we were there already.' I did really! Imagine my surprise when I got into town and saw the gorgeous stores. I actually didn't know there were any here."

"And to think," Miss Burkhardt crossed both arms and her tones were eloquent of many things as she concluded—"to think that I nearly killed myself shopping in San Francisco before coming over here. When I could just as well have gotten everything I wanted in Oakland. You know it's very hard to get about San Francisco under existing conditions."

SHOWERED WITH FLOWERS.

So much for Oakland, of which Miss Burkhardt spoke in highest praise. Indeed she must have been callous indeed had her heart not throbbed in response to the welcome showered upon her, a welcome the substantial proof of which stood witness in showers of bouquets, many of which still adorned the star's dressing room—which minds me of a little talk by Barney Barnard, who once gave me a passing thought regarding stage conveniences.

Barney, on that occasion, had said that theatrical managers built the box office first, in which to gather up the shekels of amusement seekers. Then came the auditorium, followed a stage. "The actors? Oh, yes, we must have some place to put the actors." Acting on the thought, the managerial force then constructed a few cubby-holes in any old place wherein the actor could prepare for entrance upon the stage.

"If managers only realized how surroundings affected players," continued the astute Barney while making his point, "they'd see to it that dressing-rooms are clean, roomy, well furnished and well lighted."

The Orpheum management must certainly have sensed a few things for themselves if Miss Burkhardt's room were a fair sample by which to judge. In the first place, it is built just off the stage to the right. Roomy to a degree, there is plenty of light; also are the furnishings attractive. Miss Burkhardt was not alone when Manager Eby brought me to her room. Off in one corner was seated a San Francisco friend, while at the other end Mabel Oldfield was putting finishing touches to her street costume.

LONSDALE TAKES ADVANTAGE.

Miss Oldfield, so Lillian Burkhardt assured me after the introduction, has played "much more important parts than that of the maid, Jeanne, in 'A Passing Fancy.'" She is only playing the part of Jeanne as a favor to me. At which Miss Oldfield cast an appreciative smile across at Miss Burkhardt, making her adieu.

"Your leading man," questioned I, "is very familiar, though I can't exactly place him."

"Mr. Lonsdale? Oh, yes. Of course, he's been here before—with Nat Goodwin."

How, in the name of the Gods and little fishes, could I ever have misplaced that English accent, or forgotten the identity of the man who evidences such a decided fondness for the Queen's English as spoken by himself rather than utter the words furnished by the playwright. Certainly Grant Stewart was never guilty of some of the phrases which Mr. Lonsdale intersperses so freely throughout "A Passing Fancy," for Mr. Stewart is a man of note in English literary fields, as is also H. G. Lonsdale.

But it may be that the little slips which have crept into Mr. Lonsdale's work are the result of nervousness, for it is that gentleman's very first venture in vaudeville, and at the conclusion of this week, when he takes part with Miss Burkhardt in "A Deal on Change," Mr. Lonsdale is under engagement to return to Mr. Goodwin, the incomparable comedian, whose permanent retirement from the stage was heralded far and wide last season, and to which premature announcement Mr. Goodwin is once more about to give the lie.

GETS GOOD PLAYETS.

Returning to next week's change of bill, Miss Burkhardt, so at least her manager privately informed me, is possessed of a wonderful instinct for securing good playlets.

"She seems to know just what will suit the public, and she has spent more money than any other actress I know of in buying plays."

She puts them on the stage so well, attends to every detail herself, and she has brought forward more playwrights than you'd dream of.

"For instance, Clarence Day wrote the little comedy we are to put on here next week. He's the author of the play called 'The Unexpected.' Miss Burkhardt will be remembered by many San Franciscans for her work in 'Fifty Years Ago,' that delightful skit written by Herbert Davis of the 'News Letter,' and which paved the way to better things—for it was Mr. Davis who set all London agog with 'Cousin Kate.' This predilection for buying new plays is strongly marked in Miss Burkhardt."

"I really have spent much more money than necessary in buying plays," commented she. "Most performers own only one or two. They play them here one year, tour the country, then come back and play the same thing again."

"Have you ever played in the legitimate, Miss Burkhardt?"

BEGAN IN LEGITIMATE.

"I began my stage career years ago in 'The Laughing Girl.' I wasn't the original 'Laughing Girl,' Clara Lippman originated the part, but I followed shortly after.

"And I've appeared in all the big cities everywhere—New York, Chicago, Boston, Philadelphia—more places than I can think of."

"Do you expect to return to the life again—permanently, I mean?"

"That depends. They want me to come back again to Oakland for the latter part of December and the beginning of January."

Miss Burkhardt is a Pennsylvanian by birth, though nearly all her earlier years were passed in the city of New York.

"I'm German by descent," said she. Also is she distinctly German in feature and coloring.

"I'm ashamed to confess, though, that I can't speak a word of German. But I'm determined that my baby shall. For that reason I have a 'fraulein' constantly with her. The result is, that the baby speaks German now better than she does English."

BRINGS HER BABY.

"Did you leave the little one home?"

"Home! Never! Why, I wouldn't be separated from my baby, not for a single night. Wherever I go, she goes. Do you know, I can't get over the wonder of it! to think that she really belongs to me."

"Sometimes," Miss Burkhardt's eyes shone with mother-love as she spoke, "when my audiences are a little cold; don't give me as much applause as I think they should; or things go wrong, I go home and look at her. The thought comes to me, 'What does it all matter, so long as I have her?' And I never used to be like that. I'd feel terribly when things didn't go to please me."

Apropos, is a story told me by the press agent in effect that when Miss Burkhardt made her short reappearance on the stage a couple of years ago, he went to her for some pictures.

"She used to carry a trunk full of them about with her," said he, "for she was most methodical about all business matters. But when I asked for some her reply was, 'I haven't one.'"

"What in the world did you do that for?"

"That was all over when the baby came—I never went to see any of them again."

DESTROYS OLD PHOTOS.

Thus did Miss Burkhardt obliterate all record of the years behind her. Should she elect to again return to the stage she must make history anew. But the question of re-appearance is still in abeyance. At present Miss Burkhardt, or, more properly, Mrs. George Goldsmith, combines domestic qualities with that of club woman. She is a member of that honored organization, the Ebell Club of Los Angeles; also of the Friday Morning Club, and in both finds time to give of her talents.

Miss Burkhardt appreciates a joke, even though on herself, and she tells a story regarding a certain happening in the city of the Angels. The names I shall omit, for they are representative of a well-known family in the southern part of the State. But those acquainted with the social fabric of Los Angeles will have no difficulty in recognizing a lady as celebrated for her eccentricities as for her talents.

This lady formed for Miss Burkhardt a more than passing fancy. Of the impulsive and gushing type, she sent her card to the actress at her hotel.

"Oh, Miss Burkhardt," said she, "I'm so delighted to meet you. I wanted to tell you how much I enjoyed your work"—gush, gush, gush, more gush, until the parting moment, when the visitor arose, saying, "Well, good-by, dear Miss Burkhardt, you must come to see me. Promise, now? I want to do you in marble."

ACTRES "NOT AT HOME."

This visit was repeated several times, and by a peculiar chance Miss Burkhardt was always out. But, just after her return from the trip north, when "Fifty Years Ago" was produced in San Francisco, evoking much praise from the critics, Miss Burkhardt again encountered her visitor. She was in a carriage at the curb, one of a party of four, and she spied the vaudeville artist leaving the theater.

"Oh, Miss Burkhardt, come here, do," called the irrepressible one. "So sorry to hear you've been ill. If ever you're sick again you must come straight to my house and I'll nurse you. I want to introduce you to my family. Mother," leaning across to the elderly lady on the other seat, "this is Miss Burkhardt; the young lady who danced the minuet so beautifully in 'Fifty Years Ago.'"

"This," proceeded she, directing attention to the budding youth at her side, "is my son. He expects to be a great author some day, and this"—a wave of the hand brought to notice a smiling young girl, "is my daughter. She intends to become an actress."

At this the elderly lady, taking advantage of the ensuing short pause, enquired audibly, "Who did you say it was?"

"Miss Burkhardt, mother. The lady who danced so beautifully."

"Mother's a trifle deaf," explained the bubbler, just as "mother" broke out with, "Ah, pleased to meet you, very. The show was good, wasn't it? All but the young lady who danced. She was horribly awkward!"

"Believe me," Miss Burkhardt smiled at the remembrance, "I couldn't find anything to say to that. But I stood there and laughed until I had to hold on to a lamp post for support."

MISS BRUMMOND WEDS ARMY MAN

AT THE COUNTRY CLUB. Many pleasant events check off the calendar of days at the Country Club, making it a place to be spoken of with a quickening of interest for Country Club events are never commonplace and never dull.

Several small luncheons were given at the club during the week; on Monday Tyler Henshaw had a party of nine at table; on Tuesday Mrs. Morlan C. Fox presided at a table seating six; on Wednesday the Zimmerman luncheon party numbered seven and that at the Hadley table five. Captain Goodell entertained four friends on Tuesday, and Mrs. George McNear entertained seven guests at a pretty luncheon on Friday.

Last night at the dinner hour the handsome dining room was filled with many parties. General and Mrs. Oscar Long had a small group of friends, but a decidedly interesting one. The group included Mrs. Edward Prather, Miss Marietta Havens, Lieutenant-Commander Reed, Captain Hirsch, Colonel Belinger, Willard Barton and General and Mrs. Long.

The R. A. Barry party numbered ten, the guests being Dr. and Mrs. Ernest Boyce, Mr. and Mrs. F. A. Webster, Mr. and Mrs. Elliott Davis, Mrs. J. Hamilton Gridley of Los Angeles, Mr. and Mrs. Percival G. Walker, and C. W. Cobblestick, besides the host and hostess.

At one of the larger tables Mr. and Mrs. James G. Edly presided, their party numbering twelve. The George Tysons and the J. B. Chases had pleasant little parties of six, the Henry Rosenfeldts a group of five. The A. A. Moores, Miss Perkins, Mrs. L. C. Prather and Mr. and Mrs. Cyrus Pierce were among the others who had dinner guests.

On Monday Mrs. R. W. Taylor will entertain at a small luncheon, and for other days in the week pleasant affairs are planned.

The most important of Country Club events scheduled is of course the dance planned for the eighteenth, which Mr. and Mrs. Frank L. Brown and Miss Katherine Brown are to give in compliment to Miss Alla Chickering. The announcement has caused much interest in exclusive circles, and the affair will undoubtedly be one of the smart events of the season. Several other private dinners will be given later in the season in the handsome new ball room of the club.

The regular Saturday night dances are gaining in popularity. Last night there were between eighty and one hundred dancers on the floor nearly all the evening.

LORELY COTILLION. The first of this season's dances of the Lorely Cotillion, held last night, was highly successful. The big dancing room at the Home Club was very well filled; the guests, numbering almost two hundred, were seated at the cross-the-bay tables, and the comfort of the young people was otherwise secured by a very capable and interested board of patronesses. The stage was decorated with greens, potted palms and carnations, though very little is needed to make the Home Club rooms attractive.

James A. Davis was floor manager for the evening; he was assisted by E. G. Ochs, G. H. Whitney, Frank Keese, J. F. Arnold, A. B. Charlton and J. A. Cook.

The patronesses of the club are: Mrs. George C. Paries, Mrs. M. J. Layman, Mrs. Henry Bull, Mrs. W. A. Schrack and Mrs. G. F. Ochs.

The building presented a most festive appearance brilliantly lighted up for the occasion, the long rows of incandescent lights strung from the door of the club house down the full length of the avenues leading to it.

Some of those who danced were: Miss Gladys Courvoisier, Miss Rita Haynes, Mrs. J. O. Greenwell, Mrs. A. T. Grier, Miss Florence James, Miss Mabel Jones, Miss Blanche Layman, Miss Hazel Layman, Miss Bertha Ochs, Miss Amy Ochs, Miss Edna Osborn, Miss Radcliffe, Miss Mona Radcliff, Miss Ord Root, Miss Seuberg, Miss Emily Shaw, Miss Hazel Snell, Miss Dora Stelling, Miss Lillian Warrington, Miss Edna White, Miss Norma Whitney, Miss Florence Wray, Miss Armina Monges, Miss Edith, Mrs. Burnham, Miss Drake, Miss Louise Blake, Miss Beattie Bull, Miss Astang Aune, Miss Inga Aune, Miss Sadie Flack, Miss Eva Sawich, Miss Corretta Knapp, Miss Jones, Miss Una Clark, Miss Lou Ralph, Miss Emily Myers, Miss Edith Judd, Miss Florence Mettner, Miss May Mettner, Miss Ida Fisher, and G. F. Arnold, Charles Barfield, T. B. Cathcart, A. B. Charlton, S. P. Colt, J. A. Davis, D. R. Evans, J. O. Greenwell, A. T. Grier, Thomas Johnson, F. L. Keser, Stanford Lewald, Chas. McDermott, Albert Ochs, Leslie Oliver, Ernest Ochs, Earl Russell, Carl Seuberg, William Worden, Ernest P. Furst, Herman Pearson, Neil Parker, Ralph Smith.

CLOSE OF CARNIVAL. Yesterday and last night saw the end of the carnival which has played so picturesque a part in the social life of the county during the last two weeks. A number of pretty luncheons and dinners made the final day a most enjoyable one, the largest of the complimentary affairs being the dinner given by Mrs. E. B. Sanborn in compliment to the young ladies who assisted Miss Grace Sanborn, hostess for Fabiola on the last day. Mrs. Sanborn's guests included Miss Anna Thomson, Mrs. L. L. Reasus, Mrs. Eugene Bewell, Miss Natalie Fara, Miss Genevieve Fara, Miss Laura Sanborn, Miss Edith, Mrs. Miss Beale Palmer, Miss Christie Taft, Miss Viva Nicholson, Miss Emma Farrier, Mrs. Brockway Metcalf, Mrs. Dennis Sanders, Miss Elsie Marwede, Miss Agnes Buchanan, Mrs. Isaac Upham, Miss Florence Gush, Mrs. Bern Miller, Miss Emma Grimwood, Mrs. Gus Bray, Miss Marie Plaw and Miss Meredith.

At the Oakland Club a capable committee under the direction of Mrs. A. E. Kunkel worked for the success of the day. Mrs. Schrock, Mrs. W. D. Smith, Mrs. C. J. Hesterman, Mrs. F. R. Chadwick, Mrs. J. S. Emory, Mrs. Cora Jones, Mrs. William Westphal, Mrs. F. H. Dorsey and Mrs. E. C. Wooley.

At the Ladies' Relief refreshment booth Miss Lottie Rush presided. She had the assistance of Mrs. Harrison Robinson, Mrs. Dudley Kinell, Mrs. De Verne McLaren, Miss Hattie Ehrenberg, Miss Isabel Rush, Miss Irene O'Connor and Miss Elsie Bennett.

OAKLAND CLUB. An interesting afternoon of music has been arranged for the Wednesday meeting of the Oakland Club, the affair being given in compliment to the music section of the Adelphean Club and the members of the Etude Club.

The following delightful program will be given under the direction of Mrs. D. F. Hughes:

WHIST PARTY. A most enjoyable whist party was given by Mrs. L. Webb at her home in East Oakland on Thursday evening of this week. The players were all experienced whist hands, and the game was keenly contested. The four prizes of the evening fell to L. Gens, Miss Josephine Edwards, Ralph Knapp and Dr. Ryan.

Among those who attended were F. Byker, Mr. Connolly, B. Hollis, Mr. Coates, J. Harris, Mrs. C. Harris, George Schmidt, Mrs. Schmidt, R. Knapp, Dr. W. Ryan, Mrs. H. O'Brien, Miss M. The lecture will be accompanied by fine lantern slides illustrating Mr. Knowland's theme. The lecture will be free to Ebell members and their friends.

"THE ROUND TABLE." The "Ladies of the Round Table" held a most interesting session on Thursday afternoon at the home of Mrs. Carrie A. Hall. Many plans for the new year were discussed and a delightful social hour followed. The officers of the club are: Mrs. Stuart Merrill, president; Mrs. Willard Gutches, vice president; Mrs. Duncan A. MacDonald, secretary, and Miss Clarice Borroughs, treasurer.

The club gives its time to the study and discussion of current history-making events. The meetings are held fortnightly.

CHINA SHOWER. Miss Vera Baxter of Piedmont entertained on Friday evening at a china shower, complimentary to her friend, Mrs. Lucy Wilkinson, whose marriage to T. J. Kirk of Louisville, Ky., is to take place the latter part of October.

The game of five hundred was played during the evening, after which a dainty supper was served by the charming hostess. Mrs. Wilkinson was the recipient of many beautiful pieces of hand-painted china.

Among those who participated in the pleasant affair were the Misses Ruth and Virginia Kirk of Louisville, who have come to attend their brother's wedding; Dr. and Mrs. J. J. Medros, the Misses Helen Overton, Anna Sullivan, Alice Whitney, Kathryn Farley, Margaret Lyons, Bess Watson, Mae Healey, Jessie Sexton, Minnie Overton, Sue and Vera Baxter; Messrs. Ed Overton, Frank Crossley, Tom Kirk, Will Hynes, Walter Kelly, Lawrence Baker, Charles Stark, Bert and Harry Baxter, Will Hoefler, Jack Tyson, Dick Davis and Dr. C. L. Pierce.

VIOLIN RECITAL. Miss Alice Davies, the clever young violinist, is to give a concert at the Auditorium on Friday evening, October 25. Mrs. W. Bartholomew has the program in charge, and the affair will have the support of a number of patronesses, all of them well known society women.

Miss Davies is a very promising young musician, whose work is highly commended.

BERKELEY WEDDING. An interesting Berkeley wedding set for next Tuesday evening will be that of Miss Emma Katherine Peterson and Elmer Fayson Nelson. Both young people have a great many friends, and in order to have ample accommodations for the large number of guests expected, the wedding is to take place in the Hillside Clubhouse. About one hundred and fifty cards are out, and the wedding has attracted wide interest.

The bride will wear a beautiful gown of white, with long veil and white flowers. She will have five attendants: Miss Lulu Braun as maid of honor, and Miss Mabel McGilvray, Miss Emily Bruner, Miss Augusta Kleinhammer and Miss Ethel Peterson as bridesmaids. Charles Peterson is to be best man, and Rufus Swink, A. F. Sarnell, John Schafer and Harry Goodwin are to be ushers. The Rev. Mr. Hodgkins of the Episcopal Church will officiate.

The decorations are planned to give a rainbow effect in coloring, many delicate hues being combined in the floral decorations. The gowns of the bride's attendants are to carry out this pretty idea, each of the dresses showing a different color, pink, blue, yellow, pale green and black. The details of the decorating scheme are extremely novel and charming.

The bride has made her home for some years with her sister, Mrs. W. E. Squires, who is her closest relative.

She is an attractive and clever girl, and her friends are many. The bridegroom is a young business man who has lived all his life in Berkeley, where he enjoys a wide popularity.

HOME WEDDING. One of the pretty weddings of the week was that of Miss Grace E. Smith, the youngest daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Oliver B. Smith and Thomas W. Jones, a young business man of this city.

The ceremony was performed at the home of the bride on Twelfth street on Wednesday evening, the Rev. Dr. Dilie officiating.

Only the relatives and a few close friends were present at the quiet ceremony. The young people left immediately on a trip south, and on their return they will fit up and occupy the pretty bungalow which awaits them.

BIRTHDAY PARTY. Mrs. E. Giambruno gave a delightful party on Tuesday evening in celebration of the eighteenth birthday of her son Isidore. Decorations in pink, red and white made the house very attractive for the occasion, and a program of musical numbers followed by an hour at a daintily appointed table, made the evening highly enjoyable.

Among those who attended were Mr. and Mrs. M. Cahill, Mr. and Mrs. De Laney, Miss Rose White, Miss Emma Colgett, Miss Ella Springer, Miss Amy Morgan, Misses Theresa and Lulu Bocca, Miss Vincie Giambruno, Miss Rose Bosso, Misses M. and T. Donovan, Misses N. and E. Palmquist, Miss Edith Tucker, Miss Gladys Webber, Miss Matilda Giambruno, Horace Nelson, Harvey Noble, Henry Giambruno, Samuel Morris, Mr. Atwood, Mr. Cassidy, Arthur Webber, Keith Chalmers, Messrs. Waldon and Edward Giambruno and Mr. and Mrs. Rossabino Ferrari.

AT KEY ROUTE INN. Mr. and Mrs. C. E. Cumberston are up from their country home near Redwood City, and are spending a few days at the Key Route Inn.

BRUMMOND-EDWARDS. Miss Brummond and Robert Edwards surprised their many friends by the announcement of their wedding made at a dinner given by the bride's mother,

GAY SCENES AT COUNTRY CLUB

Mrs. Henrietta Brummond, of Summit avenue, Piedmont.

The young couple were quietly married in Napa July 27 and the news was not known to even their most intimate friends. The bride was married in a white silk dress and a pale blue picture hat trimmed with white plumes.

The groom was an expert gunner in the Sixty-sixth Coast Artillery, where he won the gold medal offered in May, to the best marksman.

Mr. and Mrs. Edwards are at present staying with her mother, but expect to make their permanent home in Vallejo, Mr. Edwards will be employed in the navy yard.

Those present at the dinner were Miss Dollie Leonard, Miss Anna Fugal, Miss Amelia Marshall, Miss Amanda Brummond and Miss Elin Johnson. Arthur Phillips, Henry Brummond, Jack Shafer, William Brummond, Frank Brummond and Mrs. Henrietta Brummond.

RETURNS TODAY. Dr. Charles E. Schwartz and Miss Elsa Schmidt were the principals in a pretty wedding ceremony which took place on Tuesday evening at the home of the bride's parents, Mr. and Mrs. C. G. Schmidt.

Miss Ruby Schwab is to be married on Wednesday evening, November 6, to Walter E. Calkins.

AFTERNOON AFFAIR. Miss Gertrude Orme of Myrtle street was hostess on Friday at the first of a series of "at homes," entertaining the Misses Carmen Ghirardelli, Audrey Diers, Ada Hanlin, Kathleen Remmer, Katherine Walsh, Gladys Boyer, Esther Whalin, Eleanor Engell, Mildred Peterson, Lillian Campbell, Olive Smith, Aileen Edott, Nina Clay, Geraldine McCullum, Margaret Ahern and Bernadotte Orme.

Pretty decorations, games, music and a luncheon made the afternoon very delightful for the young hostess and her friends.

AT HOME IN OAKLAND. Miss Harriet Hale has just returned from Palisado, Nevada, where for the past two months she has been sojourning.

Miss Hale's engagement was announced shortly before her departure for Nevada, and her friends are awaiting with interest the details of her wedding plans. The bride-to-be is the daughter of one of Nevada's wealthy cattle dealers, who owns large tracts of land in the sagebrush State.

Miss Hale is pretty and accomplished, fearless and graceful in the saddle and an expert in many outdoor sports.

IN FRUITVALE. Mrs. Frank R. Wells, formerly Miss Jean Hush, arrived on the first with a Valentine Hush, who has been visiting at her daughter's home in Burlington, Vermont. Mrs. Wells plans to remain as the guest of her parents for about two months.

"BARGAIN DAYS" WILL END SATURDAY—GET VOTES NOW

NO OTHER SPECIAL OFFERS TO BE MADE

Secure Every Possible Subscription This Week.

THE SPECIAL OFFER OF DOUBLE THE USUAL NUMBER OF VOTES IS GOOD FOR ONLY A FEW MORE DAYS. AT THE EXPIRATION OF THIS SPECIAL OFFER IT IS STATED POSITIVELY THAT NO OTHER SPECIAL OFFER WILL BE MADE. CANDIDATES AND THEIR FRIENDS SHOULD TAKE ADVANTAGE OF THESE "BARGAIN DAYS" AND BRING IN EVERY POSSIBLE SUBSCRIPTION WHILE THEY CAN SECURE DOUBLE VOTES. The contest from now on until the close will assume proportions entirely new to the most of us.

While most of the contestants are already up in the thousands, those who are following are making a determined effort to come out first and are sparing no time in securing subscriptions and votes. Some think that in holding a great reserve fund of votes that they may win in the final stretch.

BE A LEADER. It is a good idea to keep up with the leader and play around first place. Your friends in looking over the list of contestants and their respective standings every night may see your name at the very last and think that the votes given you on their subscription would be useless as you are too far behind to catch up.

Consequently you do not receive those votes, whereas if you are near the top, they help you come more readily. So do not hold back too many votes, but if you are last put in enough to stay even or pass by head on.

The time is getting shorter every day, and as you have only a limited amount of time it behooves that you use all your spare time in the contest if you have hopes of securing the prize.

The prizes offered by THE TRIBUNE exceed anything else given by any other newspaper in Alameda county.

PRIZES OF $10,000. Prizes to the amount of $10,000 are not to be had every day for date is money. Start the new week right and come to the front with the votes.

You want to win or you wouldn't be in the contest, so go after the subscriptions and get the extra votes, as they count the most.

Every subscriber can save the coupons in his paper and give them to you also. Don't let a day go by for date is money to you, and the winning of the prize and being named as the most popular person will be the effort.

NAMES OMITTED. Hereafter, if most of the classes only the names of candidates who have at least 100 votes to their credit will be printed. A record of their votes will be kept and as soon as it reaches 1,000 votes the name will be printed each day.

GEO. E. MANES.

SEVEN TROUGHS LOOKS UP

LOVELOCK, Nev., October 5.—The good results of the operations of the irrigation between the Mammoth Hills and Seven Troughs company have become very apparent this week in the activity of these companies for the building of mills and placing of other improvements at the camp.

This week teams have been busy unloading and hauling to camp a carload of four-inch iron water pipe which will be used in piping the water in the canyon and from Bear Canyon over to Mammoth and the Mills.

The Kingsgarth Company has signalled to the effect of getting in at least ten stamps, perhaps twenty, and it is understood that the site for the mill is where the balanced rock used to stand, to the left above where Owens started the prospect tunnel.

The Mammoth Hills Company state that they will soon have a twenty-stamp mill in operation on their properties. Many of the lessees are getting rich mining, and it might not prove to be shipping ore. As soon as mills are placed in operation in the Seven Troughs district the production of the precious metal will be greatly increased.

Especially True of Paris and Berlin Markets—Americans Show Decline China Brings Silks and Curios for Holidays and Few Passengers

NEW YORK, October 5.—While somewhat irregular, foreign markets today showed improvement. This was especially true of Paris and Berlin, where the tone was firm. French routes advanced, and a small rise in discounts at Berlin was without effect. At London the feature was a further rally in consolids, and the market was very quiet, with majority showing small declines.

NEW YORK, October 5.—The bank statement showing a less in cash almost twice as large as predicted by the market, and some of the banks out for profit, put a sudden stop today to a rally in the stock market which had been in progress since the official figures of the Federal Reserve Bank were published. Prices showed off immediately all around, but were not so much affected as to show a general decline. The market was generally quiet.

FRUIT EXHIBIT LEADS WORLD

Expert Declares Alameda "Processed" Specimens Not Surpassed—Praises Work

The exhibit of "processed" fruits which has been on exhibition at the Alameda County Exposition at Sycamore Park, is declared by J. A. Filcher, secretary of the State Agricultural Society, to be the finest in the world. "It has been the best on earth and Alameda county leads them all," said Filcher, "and what is more, I wish to say that W. D. Nichol is the magician who has brought this exhibit into existence. Among horticulturists it is a common saying, and a true one, that Burbank is the wizard creator and Nichol the wizard preserver of California's choicest fruits and flowers."

IS OPTIMISTIC.
Secretary Filcher is most optimistic in his estimate of the good that will accrue to Alameda county from the exposition that has just closed. "It will cause the promotion organizations of the county to send out more than a million documents in a year, descriptive of Alameda county, provided the demand thus created is met by the people of the community," he said.

"California is now started on a career of greatness that nothing can hinder, and within twenty years this State will vie with great commonwealths of the East in regard to all the things that go to make for the comfort and welfare of its citizens. The soil of California has hardly been touched by the hand and science and only awaits adequate development to contribute still more liberally to the enrichment of the world."

FORMER POLICE OFFICER FLEES

Michael Gover, Charged With Attempt to Murder, Escapes From Hospital

SEATTLE, Oct. 5.—Having artfully recovered from the self-inflicted wounds following his attempt August 14 to kill his sweetheart, Miss Millie Taylor, Michael Gover, a former police officer of this city, smuggled out of the Seattle general hospital, where he was a patient, and has fled for parts unknown. He is wanted for murder.

Gover went to Miss Taylor's home after she had broken off the engagement to marry him and when she persisted in her refusal to become his wife he shot at her several times, but the bullets went wild. He then turned the weapon upon himself and for two weeks it was thought he would die as a result of the attempt upon his life.

Begs to Be Arrested; Is Not Accommodated

James Rielly, habitually unknown, accused a policeman yesterday and asked to be placed under arrest; he claimed he had been drinking heavily for the past five weeks and had run through with $1300. The policeman declined to make the arrest.

GLADYS VANDERBILT TO WED COUNT SHORTLY

NEWPORT, R. I., Oct. 5.—As affairs stand at present at "The Breakers," Mrs. Gladys Vanderbilt will wed Count Ladislaus Seesholtz, a Bohemian nobleman, who has been registered at the Casino for two months. The Count, however, closes November 1. It is no longer a secret that the engagement was arranged between Mrs. Vanderbilt, her daughter and the count, but nothing was known of the affair. That the engagement is purely a love affair is an acknowledged fact in the Vanderbilt family, for Miss Vanderbilt and the count show their infatuation in the most public places.

MEMBER OF CLINTON CLUB ALLEGES OFFICIAL NEGLIGENCE

Thinks That His Portion of City Has Not Received Attention Properly Due From Municipality.

To the Editor of THE TRIBUNE—

A regular meeting of the Clinton Improvement Club held at Washington Hall Wednesday evening, September 11th, the following committee were appointed:

Auditing—L. Newquist, C. Looker, C. S. Cushing.

Street—Fred Klump, Henry Rudy, John Rudy, L. Lanz, John La Blanc.

Street Lights on Twelfth Street—E. S. Bingham, Dr. J. H. Heath, C. L. McCoy, George Pierce, John Rudy.

Special committee to confer with Board of Public Works in reference to procuring right of way for boulevard from Twelfth to Eighth street are E. S. Bingham, Dr. J. H. Heath and L. Lanz.

ALLEGES NEGLIGENCE.

The Clinton Improvement Club was organized for the betterment of East Oakland, particularly that portion of the district situated close to the border of Lake Merritt.

The residents of that section have suffered long and patiently from the vile odors caused by the return of the sewage, made possible by the gross negligence of the city officials having jurisdiction over the health and welfare of the residents of Oakland.

With us on the east side patience has ceased to be a virtue, and we now purpose to exact, nay to demand our rights. We have justice on our side. We ask for nothing but that which we are entitled to. We ask that our health be protected, and we ask that our fourth sense, that of smelling, be considered.

We have the power of numbers and the strength of unity, the motor of energy and the persistence of a book agent.

We are prepared to make a vigorous and determined fight. One that we will win.

NEW LAKE TRACT TO BE PIEDMONT KNOLL

Referring to the development of the new residence section at the head of Lake Merritt Mr. Havens of the firm of Wickham Havens Incorporated said:

The much talked of improvement of the Lake Shore avenue boulevard is now becoming an accomplished fact probably before this is read by the public the Oakland Tracton Company will have a large force of men laying the rails through the park which is being filled with earth excavated on the site of the Bankers' Hotel.

The street car line will run along the south side of Piedmont by the Lake Front tract and up Lake Shore avenue to the terminal of the last fine close in residence tract which is available for the market. This is to be called Piedmont Knoll and the opening sale will be held in a couple of weeks.

The placing of this tract upon the market establishes the completion of a cycle of improvements which we have been working upon for some years.

COMPLETES CYCLE.

Beginning with the Central Piedmont tract on the north and Piedmont by the Lake tract on the south we have placed upon the market eight or nine tracts each succeeding one of which has lessened the gap between those two desirable sections.

The completion of Piedmont Knoll tract closes this gap and finishes the arch of our endeavor Lake Shore avenue when completed, will be the main approach to Piedmont. It has the advantage of a width of 100 feet for nearly all of the distance which of course will make it much more attractive for automobiles and carriages. Besides this it will wind through a very high class residence section for its entire length.

Editor TRIBUNE Is not an attorney an officer of the court and as such is not his duty to society just as sacred as that of the court itself?

That is it not the duty of an attorney to protect the innocent as well as to bring the guilty to justice?

Is there anything conceivable more repugnant than the prostitution of justice to the purposes of private vengeance?

The attorney or judge who would, for the sake of gaining fame as a prosecutor, or popularity as a judge, or of wreaking vengeance on a political enemy strive to convict an innocent citizen is himself a criminal and justly deserves to be the felon's stripes.

Have the San Francisco prosecutors during the past few months been honestly and impartially endeavoring to arrive at the truth and deal justly with the accused who believe they have
